CALM BETWEEN FINANCE FIGHTS

New York Exchanges Closed and Curb Quiet.

LONDON IS BUYING N. P.

THIS LOOKED ON AS FURTHER EFFORT TO CONTROL THE STOCK.

Heavy Buying of Union Pacific Causes Belief That Fight Will Be Transferred to That Stock Monday.

NEW YORK, May 11.—With both the Stock Exchange and the Consolidated Exchange closed today, and with practically nothing doing on "the curb," Wall street was very quiet. Although the exchanges were not open for business, all of the larger brokerage houses had their clerks at work straightening out the accounts of speculators and putting their books in order.

In the rush days from Monday to Friday none of the usual making out of customers' stamps was done, and it probably will be late tomorrow night before the balancing of accounts will be finished.

Many speculators went downtown to await the bank statement and to get the London quotations for American securities. At 2 p. m. London's prices generally showed advances as compared with the close at New York yesterday, the extreme rise being 18 points in Northern Pacific. Other stocks generally were up but United States Steel common was ⅜ and the preferred ½ lower. Illinois Central showed a decline of 1¼.

All interest in the financial world remains absorbed in the great contest for the control of the Northern Pacific and the rivalries that have been caused by that battle.

The heavy buying in Union Pacific yesterday provoked much comment and today the "street" was wondering whether the fight of the railway giants was to be transferred to that stock again.

The high price for Northern Pacific in London today was taken by many as indication that buying for control of the property was still going on wherever the seller had the stock to deliver it.

It was learned today, also, that at the time Kuhn, Loeb & Co. were settling with shorts yesterday at 150 a share they were paying the same price over the counter to all who offered the securities for instant delivery.

LONDON IN MORGAN'S GRIP

LONDON, May 11.—A special meeting of the Stock Exchange committee has been summoned for Monday morning in the hope of reaching a solution of the difficulty in which operators and brokers who have given calls for Northern Pacific for the end of May and July find themselves. It developed today that every share here is held by the Morgans and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and therefore the brokers are unable to secure a single share for delivery. The situation has a depressing effect.

Owing to the closing of the New York Stock Exchange Americans were absolutely stagnant, awaiting developments. J. P. Morgan will be in London this afternoon and a conference will be held. It is hoped he and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will do something to relieve the situation. In the meantime there is considerable anxiety. Though the closing of the Stock Exchange here was easier, quotations mostly showed a marked advance. Northern Pacific common was quoted at an advance of 30½ points, in connection with the settlement.

EFFECT ON UNION PACIFIC

NEW YORK, May 11.—How is Union Pacific going to be affected by the contest now in progress for control of the Northern Pacific, is a question which is being discussed with great interest by Wall street. If Mr. Harriman and his associates succeed in their endeavor to obtain control of the Northern Pacific, the answer to the question is comparatively simple. By that operation the Union Pacific, through its control of the Northern Pacific, would come virtually into possession of the latter's one-half interest in the Burlington system, and its position would be materially strengthened. If, however, it should develop, as the street seems inclined to think will be the case, that Mr. Morgan and Mr. Hill have obtained a clear majority of the Northern Pacific stocks, a situation will be created which in the present temper of the opposing forces, is thought by Wall street to be one of much gravity, for the Burlington control gives the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, both paralleling the Union Pacific on the north, an outlet of their own from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago and gives the Northern Pacific also a direct outlet from the Pacific coast to Kansas City, Omaha and other points in the Union Pacific territory.

The St. Paul and Northwestern roads also find their interests menaced by the Burlington deal and these companies which are in harmony with the Union Pacific are said to be likely to make common cause with the latter in case it is excluded from participation in control of the Burlington. It remains to be seen whether or not the present contest will be allowed to develop into a general fight all along the line, a struggle which, it is felt by careful observers, would be disastrous in the extreme. Such a conflict, it is pointed out, would not only embrace the transcontinental lines and the roads between the Mississippi and the Rockies, but might also spread to the eastern territory.

In view of the vast possibilities of loss and disasters resulting from an open breach between Mr. Morgan and the other powerful interests referred to, however, involving the complete abandonment of the "community of interests" principle, it is not believed among the best posted men in the financial district that the Union Pacific will be shut out from participation in some form and to some degree in the Burlington deal, whatever be the outcome of the battle for actual control of the Northern Pacific.

"How will the fight over Northern Pacific affect the Union Pacific's interests?" Russell Sage was asked last night.

"I think Union Pacific will not be hurt, and I think its stock will be more valuable later on than it is now," he replied.

CUPIDITY THEIR UNDOING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

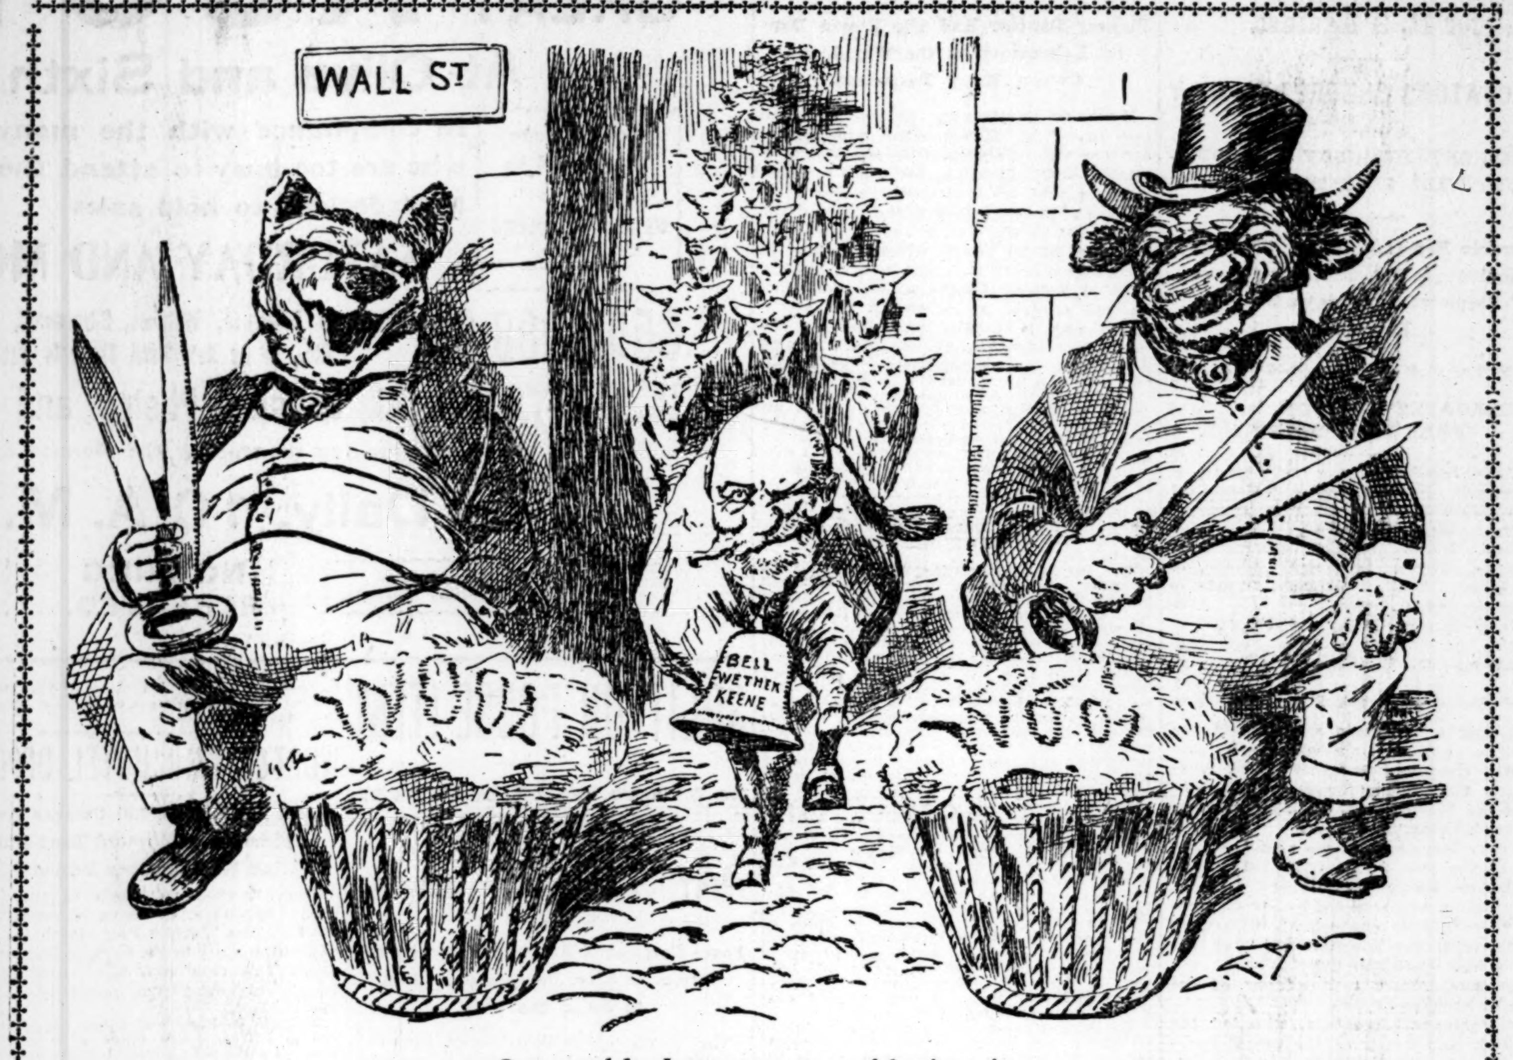
ST. PAUL, Minn., May 11.—It is believed here that the scramble between the Harriman and Hill syndicates for Northern Pacific started here, and that the Harriman crowd was given its first good start through the cupidity of certain members of the Hill-Morgan coterie.

These men, it is said, tempted by the high price of the stock put it on the market unknown to the syndicate managers. While the holders of this stock had no intention of deserting the Hill-Morgan combine, they concluded that the stock was too high and could be bought back at a much lower price and they could clean up a few thousands by the transaction.

The Harriman people had anticipated some such action and were ready to take the stock. When the Hill-Morgan syndicate learned that a large block of their own stock had got into the hands of Harriman and his friends the order went forth to their brokers to buy at any price.

It is believed that this explains why J. J. Hill, in an interview yesterday, said:

"There has been some wicked work, there have been plots, and there have been means adopted to accomplish ends that could find no justification in any code of ethics."



Same old shears, same old shearing;
Nothing new—except the lambs.

PRESIDENT WAS INTERESTED.

Telephoned Wall Street and Asked if There Would Be a Panic.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 11.—President McKinley has been in close touch with the Wall street storm of the last few days. Broker F. G. Logan was called up by President McKinley over the Logan leased wire to Los Angeles. Just after Northern Pacific touched 1000 the President, with some of his party, walked into the Logan branch office at Los Angeles and asked to be put into communication with Mr. Logan, so that he might learn the state of things in Wall street.

"Will there be a panic?" he asked.

"Wall street is suffering," replied Mr. Logan, "but it looks as if the worst were over. I do not believe it will amount to a panic."

All the wire facilities of the office were placed at the President's disposal and Mr. Logan asked F. R. Mansion, one of the governors of the New York Stock Exchange, to send by way of Chicago his opinion of the outlook. Having received assurances that the danger was past, the President withdrew, apparently satisfied.

MORGAN MADE THE CABLE HUM

Had Special Service, Paris to Wall Street.

PASSED A SLEEPLESS NIGHT

RECEIVED FIFTY TELEGRAMS IN ONE BIG BUNCH.

The Great Financier Refused to Talk of the Financial Battle in Which He Had Such Enormous Interests.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1901.)

PARIS, May 11.—J. Pierpont Morgan has made the cables hum since he reached here from Aixles-Baines. He came on a special train on a moment's warning of the excitement on the New York stock exchange.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent met Mr. Morgan as he alighted at the Hotel Bristol, but the magnate evidently was in no humor to discuss the Wall street panic until he had attended to the most pressing work demanded by the situation.

No sooner was he in the hotel lobby than he asked for the telegrams which had been received for him, while two or three liveried servants hastened to take them to him.

"I have nothing to say," Mr. Morgan remarked to the Post-Dispatch correspondent. "I know but little. I left Aix last night before cabled details of the day's work could reach me, on account of the difference in time. I have come here purposely to be able to keep in touch with New York.

A bunch of about fifty dispatches was handed to Mr. Morgan just then. He put them all in his big traveling coat pocket and jumped into a cab without going up to his room or eating breakfast.

A man who the correspondent believes is the secretary of banker Harjes, Mr. Morgan's Paris partner, was awaiting Mr. Morgan at the hotel, and the two drove away together, Mr. Morgan brusquely saying: "Now summarize the situation briefly."

Mr. Morgan evidently was worried and somewhat excited, as after a sleepless night he remained the whole day in his private office reading cables from New York and London, and dictating answers.

Early in the day an influential man connected with one of the cable companies went to the French authorities to arrange for the exclusive use of a special wire right into the Brest cable station, where Mr. Morgan's messages took precedence over everything both ways.

An employe in the place where Mr. Morgan was working said he heard the people inside say there never before were such swift interchanges of messages between New York and Paris. Answers would sometimes reach Mr. Morgan's desk in 40 minutes after the questions had been filed.

At 6:30 p. m., Mr. Morgan had not returned to Hotel Bristol. He had only sent a telephone message to his valet to have his evening clothes ready for him as he would go there to dress for dinner.

MONEY BACKED ALL HIS BLOWS

Van Epps Fought with Hands Full of Bills.

FIVE MEN ATTACKED HIM

CRIES FOR HELP BROUGHT POLICE TO HIS RESCUE.

J. E. Van Epps, Army Purchasing Agent From Porto Rico, Listened to Confidence Men and Found Trouble.

J. E. Van Epps of San Juan, Porto Rico, purchasing agent for the quartermaster's department of the United States Army, fought five confidence men Saturday morning with his swinging fists full of five-dollar bills in crumpled paper money.

Every blow that Van Epps struck in the alley on Sixth street between Morgan street and Lucas avenue was backed by his own money, over which his hands had tightly closed when he grabbed the pile from the table in front of the "drop-case" game, one of the various devices employed by confidence men.

In the struggle for possession of the money a five dollar bill was torn in half. Van Epps has one of the fragments as a souvenir of his fierce time, and the confidence men, who escaped, own the other part of the token.

Van Epps told the police that an effort was made to rob him of $130 more, which he had in a pocketbook in his coat.

Con Gallagher and Robert Endicott were arrested by Patrolmen Ostermeyer and McCormack in the chase that followed the fight in the alley. They were identified at the Four Courts station by Van Epps as two of the five men who "roped" him into the game, and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson issued warrants against them for grand larceny. The police are looking for the others.

Fierce Fight in a Narrow Alley.

Van Epps is stopping in the city while he closes contracts for 2400 head of horses which are being purchased for the Twelfth and Thirteenth Cavalry Regiments.

He had $190 in currency Saturday morning when he started for North St. Louis on a business trip. He met two men at Broadway and Lucas avenue, and listened to their proposition. They "steered" him into an alley where confederates had set up a "drop case." Van Epps told Police Captain Boyd at the Carr Street Station that the betting beban with a 10-cent limit, and gradually was raised until he was betting $10 at each throw of the marble.

When he realized that he was being beaten he attempted to draw his money out of the game. At this stage of the proceedings the fight commenced. Van Epps says that all five of the men piled on him and he felt fingers reaching beneath his coat. This nerved him to a desperate resistance and he struck about him savagely while he yelled loudly. The policemen appeared and the gang scattered.

Van Epps lost nothing but the torn half of the $5 bill.

MARLBOROUGHS RECONCILED

The Duke and Duchess Ostentatiously Exhibit the Fact That They Have Kissed and Made Up.

LONDON, May 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough have taken an active and conspicuous part in the Primrose League meetings this week, always appearing together, as if to emphasize that there was no truth in the recent stories of a serious misunderstanding between them. At the reception which Mrs. Bischoffsheim gave to the league Thursday evening among the prominent people about the hostess were the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough.

THE SULTAN CALLED THE AMBASSADORS SMUGGLERS

His Note Was Promptly Returned and as a Result Relations Have Partly Ceased Between the Embassies and the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Friday, May 11.—A third note, evidently emanating direct from the Sultan, was delivered today to the ambassadors, demanding in peremptory language the immediate suppression of the foreign postoffices and reiterating the charges of smuggling against foreign officials.

The ambassadors immediately returned the note to the porte, thus creating partial cessation of relations between the embassies and the Turkish government.

SUICIDE'S NAME IS ROBERT BURNS

Identified Saturday Morning by J. E. Pace.

DEAD MAN WAS AN AERONAUT

SHOT HIMSELF THURSDAY IN A THIRD STREET SALOON.

Burns Had Just Taken a Cure for the Cigarette Habit, but Resumed Smoking After Leaving the Institution.

Through the Post-Dispatch the man who shot himself in the saloon at 812 North Third street Thursday afternoon and who died the same night at the City Hospital, was identified at the morgue Saturday morning by Joseph E. Pace of 6450 Odell avenue.

The dead man is Robert Burns, an aeronaut, who made balloon ascensions in various cities under the professional name of Prof. Le Burno. He was 28 years old and was a brother of Mrs. W. H. Pace, whose husband is purchasing agent of the Republic Steel Works at East St. Louis, and who resides at 2608 Marcus avenue in St. Louis.

Burns left the home of his sister a week ago, taking his effects Saturday morning, and saying that he was going out to search for work. No more was heard from him, and it was not known that anything had befallen him until Saturday morning, when Mr. Pace found his body on a slab at the morgue.

Burns had been a slave to the cigarette habit, and a week ago last Thursday he was discharged from the Keeley Institute, where he had passed two weeks undergoing treatment for the habit. His brother-in-law said that Burns resumed the habit as soon as he left the institute.

The motive that prompted him to take his life is yet a mystery. His relatives were very much opposed to his becoming an aeronaut, and after he took the business up as a means of making a livelihood, eight years ago, they did all in their power to get him to abandon the hazardous calling. He would listen to their pleadings, but when the season would open up in the spring he would resume his daily trips to the clouds.

He Reveled in the Danger.

There was a fascination, he often told his sister, in these trips above the habitations of men that made him continue making ascensions. He realized the constant danger that menaced him, but the excitement and love of adventure overcame any fears, if he possessed any, and he often told his sister that he would never lose his life by being dashed from a balloon.

Six years ago he married a young woman who lived in an Iowa town. He was making ascensions at the county fair. He was 2[illegible] years old then, nearly 6 feet tall, as straight as an arrow, a perfect athlete, strong and handsome.

This country girl fell in love with the young aeronaut and he with her. Before the fair was over they were engaged and the next season "Prof. Le Burno and Edith Le Burno" were billed over the fair circuit to make ascensions.

Last season Burns and his wife played a long engagement in a park at Nashville, Tenn. Burns was not of a saving disposition and last March his money was all gone. He came to St. Louis and with his wife started in to do light housekeeping on Pine street west of Jefferson avenue. He obtained work in a laundry on South Jefferson avenue, but the pay was small and the work was hard.

Dissensions had arisen between husband and wife and a separation was agreed upon. She was to go to her parents' home in Iowa and he was to make his home with his siter on Marcus avenue.

The cigarette habit had so grown upon him that he was incapacitated for work of any sort. His relatives insisted that he take treatment for the habit. At that time he smoked 150 cigarettes a day. He did not want to take treatment, but in deference to their wishes he consented.

Prepared for Suicide.

When he left his sister's home last Saturday he said that he was going out to search for employment. He was accustomed to leaving and remaining away for months at a time without signifying his intentions, and nothing was thought when he was not heard from.

Where he passed his time from last Saturday to Thursday is not known. A little after noon last Thursday he entered a saloon at 812 North Third street. He was well-dressed, but appeared ill at ease. He sat at a table for a while, then arose and stepped out on the street. In a few minutes he returned. He sat at th[illegible] ing approached the bartender and asked for a private room. He was directed to one, and in a minute a shot was heard from the room that he had just entered.

The bartender entered and saw the man lying on the floor. A wound was in his head and a smoking pistol in his hand. An ambulance was summoned and the man was conveyed to the City Hospital. It was found that he had held the weapon above his head and fired down, the bullet plowing its way through the brain and lodging at the base of the skull. He lived from noon until midnight.

Burns had been careful to destroy all papers that would lead to his identity. He had evidently dressed for the occasion. His linen was clean and his clothing was all new. In his pocket was found a half-pint bottle half-filled with gin. It is supposed that he drunk of this to give him courage to end his life as he had decided upon.

MISSOURI'S CASE IS BEING URGED

Attorneys to Appear Before U. S. Supreme Court.

SUIT IS AGAINST ILLINOIS

SUPPLEMENTAL PETITION IN DRAINAGE CANAL CASE READY.

Attorney-General Crow and City Counselor Schnurmacher Go to Washington to Present Further Facts.

Attorney-General E. C. Crow and City Counselor Benjamin Schnurmacher departed at noon Saturday for Washington, D. C., where they will file a supplemental petition in the suit of the State of Missouri against the State of Illinois and the Sanitary District of Chicago, next Monday.

Attorney-General H. J. Hamlin of Illinois and Attorneys Jas. Todd and P. C. Haley of the sanitary district will be on hand to file a joint demurrer to the fourth paragraph of Missouri's amended bill of complaint, and, if this is not sustained, they will present the separate answer of the sanitary district to the entire bill.

It is evident from the amount of perturbation shown by the Chicago attorneys that they are very much at sea in regard to the case which they will present, while St. Louis' case is admittedly stronger than at any time since the suit was filed.

The action of the war department in ordering the flow of water into the drainage canal cut down to not exceeding 200,000 cubic feet per minute, Mr. Schnurmacher says, has greatly strengthened the case.

The law requires a flow of not less than 20,000 cubic feet per minute for each 100,000 inhabitants of the sanitary district. This has been taken to mean about 300,000 cubic feet, but under the new census, Mr. Schnurmacher says, the population of the Chicago sanitary district is over 2,000,000, which would require a total flow of 400,000 cubic feet.

As this is regarded as an impossibility, in view of the demands of navigation in the Chicago river, which was seriously menaced by a flow of 300,000 feet, Chicago, according to good legal judgment, is confronted by almost certain defeat.

In his demurrer to paragraph 4 of Missouri's bill, Attorney-General Hamlin will set up the claim, in effect, that while the sanitary district may be violating the law of Illinois in reducing the flow of water to 200,000 cubic feet, it is none of Missouri's business.

Mr. Hamlin's Peculiar Position.

Mr. Hamlin is the legal counsel of the State of Illinois, and as such is placed in the peculiar position of being on both sides of the present case. That is to say, he is supposed to see that the state laws of Illinois are not violated, as they are by the sanitary district, while at the same time he is defending the violation as principal counsel for the defendant in the Missouri-Illinois suit.

It is evident that Mr. Hamlin and his colleagues are not hopeful that the Supreme Court will sustain the demurrer, for they will take with them to Washington the separate answer of the sanitary district to Missouri's supplemental bill of complaint, which will be filed if the court orders it.

The burden of this answer is that the Mississippi is not polluted by the waters of the Chicago canal, which empty into it through the Illinois river. A further claim, to the effect that St. Louis itself pollutes the waters of the lower Mississippi by emptying its sewage into the river, is pronounced by Associate City Counselor Allen as "puerile," inasmuch as it has no bearing on the drainage canal case whatever.

Messrs. Schnurmacher and Allen laughed at the story telegraphed from Washington that Chicago would object to the trial of the case by a jury.

"There has been but one jury trial in the United States Supreme Court since its organization," said the former, "and that was over a century ago, in a case which was not an equity case, as this is. The suggestion for a jury in this case came entirely from the counsel for the defendants, and if they have decided to object to it, they are simply objecting to their own proposition."

It is regarded as probable that the evidence in the case will be taken by a special commissioner appointed by the Supreme Court during the summer, and it will be argued in the fall.

"But it will be only a trifle cooler," he said to the Post-Dispatch. "I expect the temperature to rise again Sunday and I think it will be a pretty day."

Saturday morning the thermometer showed 54 degrees at 7 o'clock. At 11 o'clock the mercury indicated 65. Dr. Hyatt expects the temperature to reach 70 during the afternoon.

MERCHANTS AT TEXAS CAPITAL

Heard St. Louis Praised and Attended Banquet.

GREETED BY GOV. SAYERS

TEXANS PLEDGED SUPPORT TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Many Speeches Were Made, All Tending to Cement the Union Between St. Louis and Texas Markets.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 11.—The excursion of St. Louis business men passed the day, today, through what might be called the "Highlands of Texas." They extend from Temple, which was reached at 8 o'clock this morning, almost to Austin, the capital. They contain the richest and most developed farming lands in the state.

This city was reached at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The party was taken at once to the State House, where Gov. Sayers held an informal reception and welcomed the visitors.

"The people of St. Louis and the people of Texas," said the governor, "have been close and natural friends from the time this state was settled. We desire the relation to continue through all the years to come."

Edward S. Lewis and George J. Tansey responded to the governor's welcome.

Mr. Tansey said the St. Louis party had been shown the promised land and he was afraid if he went home and told just what wonders they had seen all the northern states would be depopulated and even St. Louis would be in danger of the same fate.

After the speeches the visitors were shown over the State House, which is the largest in the United States and had their pictures taken at the east entrance.

Then, accompanied by the governor's band, they were given a trolley ride about the city and shown through the state university and the insane asylum.

Supper was served to the party in the Summer Theater at Hyde Park at 7:30 o'clock. Following the supper a program was carried out, Mr. J. L. Peter acting as toastmaster. Gov. Sayers responded to the toast: "Our Guests," presenting Mr. Lewis, the president of the Merchants' Association, with a monster bouquet of red and white roses.

Mr. A. P. Woolridge, an Austin banker, responded to a toast to "The Bankers of Texas;" Mr. Edward S. Orr of St. Louis to one to the "Bankers of St. Louis." Judge W. S. Simpkins to one to the "University of Texas." Mr. J. F. Coyle of St. Louis to one to the "St. Louis Merchants' Exchange," Mr. Jesse L. Boogher of St. Louis to one to the "Commerce Relations of St. Louis and Texas," Former Gov. Webb Flanagan of Austin replied to his own famous saying: "What Are We Here For?" Mr. Edward S. Lewis responded to a toast to the "St. Louis Excursion Through Texas."

Among others who made short addresses were Mayor R. E. White of Austin, Mr. W. B. Wortham, president of the First National Bank here; Messrs. John H. Tennent, L. F. Dozier, George W. Brown, Hampton Crawford and H. S. Tuttle of St. Louis.

In every speech of the evening the World's Fair of 1903 was dwelt on, and Texas urged to make a big exhibit. Gov. Sayers declared that he would do all in his power under the state constitution for the exposition, but he said that the constitution absolutely forbade an appropriation for an exhibit by the state.

The excursion left here at 8 o'clock in the morning for San Antonio, where Sunday will be spent. At Temple, the home of the round cotton bale, where a stop was made this morning, M. P. L. Downs, a local banker made an address of welcome from the station platform to which M. L. T. Tune responded. A drive over the town and a visit to the round cotton bale compress took up the remainder of the hour there.

At Beltonn, the next stop, state representative W. T. Shannon welcomed the visitors. He told how the people of the town had $700,000 in one local bank with which they were going to build factories and cotton compresses. Mr. George J. Tansey responded to the address.

At Taylor, the last stop, Mr. John F. Black, the mayor, introduced Mr. J. M. Parker, who extended a welcome to the St. Louisans. Mr. Paul Jones made the response.

Taylor is the center of Williamson County, which produces more cotton than any other county in the world.

Temple, Belton and Taylor are in the center of the highest country in Texas. They are substantial towns of about 7000 inhabitants each, dependant, all of them, upon the rich farming and cotton country surrounding them.

Col. Carmody's New Idea.

Col. P. J. Carmody, who keeps nothing but what is first-class, and who made a new popularity for himself by breaking the old-time custom of fine drinks at 15 cents or more, and by selling them for 10 cents, has introduced the same idea in a cafe and lunch, where cold snacks can be had with the very best of materials and the best of service at popular prices. All food will be cooked in the most scientific manner one day ahead of time, and will be elegantly served. There will be a perfect fan service in the hot weather; and gentlemen will find the lunch at 213 North Eighth street everything that could be desired.

SHIP FOR LOCAL TARS

NAVAL RESERVES WILL PETITION WAR DEPARTMENT.

WILL SAIL THE MISSISSIPPI

Commander H. D. Rogers, Backed by St. Louis Merchants, Will Lay His Plan Before Gov. Dockery.

A warship of the United States navy, manned by St. Louisans and commanded by a Missouri boy, will cruise off the port of St. Louis during the World's Fair, if the plans of H. D. Rogers, commander of the Naval Reserves of Missouri, succeed.

Mr. Rogers will reveal his idea to Gov. Dockery at Jefferson City Monday and ask the governor's approval of the World's Fair plan, and also ask that the governor approve a requisition that the Naval Reserves propose to make on the United States government for naval equipment and the use of a small ship for training purposes on the Mississippi river.

Mr. Rogers is sanguine of the success of both schemes. "I am sure," he said to the Post-Dispatch Saturday, "that the navy department will furnish us equipment and a training ship soon as the governor approves of our requisition. The navy department has equipped the Naval Reserves of other states and it will surely be as generous to the Naval Reserves of Missouri as it has been to other organizations.

"The Post-Dispatch told last July of the organization of the Missouri Naval Reserves. Since then I have recruited 100 men and uniformed them. We have drilled in the Armory once each week for a year.

"I was elected commander of the organization and W. F. Roberts was selected for executive officer.

"Prominent business men of St. Louis have indorsed our organization and I have letters to the governor that will aid me in securing his indorsement.

"We hope the national government will give us a training ship and equipment immediately, so we can drill on the river this summer. Then we could be well drilled and able to handle the war vessel that we will ask for use during the World's Fair.

"The men are now well practiced in all naval matters that can be taught without a vessel. Give us a ship and we promise to make our organization a credit to St. Louis and Missouri."

Mr. Rogers served 11 years in the United States navy and participated in stirring adventures while in South American and Oriental waters. He lives at 3527 Bell avenue.

Mr. Roberts, who is connected with an electrical company, resides at 4476 Morgan street.

EDUCATION FOR PRACTICAL USE.

The Demand for Male Stenographers.

Young men who are finishing their studies at the regular schools should investigate the advantages offered by the Bryant & Stratton Business, Shorthand and Telegraph School for thoroughly educating young people and aiding them in getting employment. Business men are constantly applying at the college office for help, such calls frequently running as high as 60 or 70 in a single month and largely outnumbering graduates desiring positions. The school has elegant rooms in the Century building, corner Olive and Ninth streets, and is fully equipped with everything necessary for comfort and progress.

BUFFALO BILL'S ROUGH RIDERS.

Boers From South Africa and British Cavalrymen Added.

Real South African Boers, as well as men from the Canadian Mounted Rifles and the Strathcona Horse, who fought them during the past year, now ride side by side in Buffalo Bill's Wild West, which will appear next week at Laclede and Vandeventer avenues.

Col. Cody prides himself upon having in his retinue actual actors in the thrilling scenes which are so strikingly portrayed.

In his convocation of rough riders are Cossacks from the army of the Russian Czar; heavy dragoons from the Imperial Body Guard of Kaiser Wilhelm; English lancers, French light horse and even Bedouin Arab cavalrymen, loaned by the Sultan, not to forget our own gallant regulars, cowboys and Indians, of course, and this year Boers under Commander Von der Loo, Canadian mounted rifles and British cavalrymen.

A crew of coast-guard life-savers constitutes one of the attractive features of this year's show, and a battle scene in the fight at Tien-Tsin forms one of its most realistic reproductions.

HOUSE PASSES PARK SITE BILL

Twenty-Five Delegates Voted for It, 2 Against.

SPECTATORS CHEERED LOUDLY

PRESIDENT HORNSBY OF COUNCIL WILL SIGN TUESDAY.

Favorable Report of House Committee Resulted in Immediate Action, as Predicted in Friday's Post-Dispatch.

DELEGATES' VOTE ON FREE PARK SITE BILL.

Ayes—Speaker Cronin and Messrs. Brennan, Buckley, Burke, Denny, Faulkner, Fontana, Gazzolo, Geraghty, Howard, Kelly, Kinney, Klute, Koeln, Murrell, Overbeck, Pfeffle, Reiss, Stannard, Stanze, Sweeney, Troll, Williams, Windmueller and Zachritz—25.

Noes—Messrs. Funsch and Karbe—2.

Absent—Mr. Hannigan—1.

Following a favorable report from the committee on public improvements, as predicted by Chairman Geraghty in the Post-Dispatch Friday, the House of Delegates passed the World's Fair park site bill by an overwhelming majority.

The only votes cast in the negative were those of the two Public Ownership members, Messrs. Funsch and Karbe.

The meeting was attended by several hundred World's Fair enthusiasts, who wore buttons with the inscription, "For the World's Fair Park Site Bill."

They were invited to the floor of the House by Speaker Cronin.

Former Mayor Ziegenhein, who led the opposition to the bill at the public hearing, was not present.

The meeting of Mr. Geraghty's committee, which preceded that of the House, was attended by Speaker Cronin, who urged immediate action on the bill. His advice was not needed, however, as the members had already decided that the passage of the bill was demanded by public sentiment.

Passage of Bill Greeted With Cheers.

The announcement that the bill had passed was greeted with cheers from the spectators on the floor of the House and in the galleries, and the members who voted for it were warmly congratulated after the meeting.

The bill will be signed next Tuesday afternoon by President Hornsby of the Council, and Speaker Cronin, after which it will go to Mayor Wells for his approval.

It will become a law 10 days after the mayor shall have signed it, in case he shall decide to do so.

Readers of the Post-Dispatch are acquainted with the provisions of the bill. It authorizes the directors of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to use either O'Fallon, Carondelet or that portion of Forest Park lying west of the Grand Concourse, Post-Dispatch Lake and the Lindell Pavilion, as a site for the World's Fair.

The city reserves control of the park, in case of its selection, and all operations and improvements shall be subject to the approval of the Board of Public Improvements.

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. will give a bond for $100,000 to restore the park to its present condition.

SUIT BY HARGADINE HEIRS.

They Seek to Obtain Possession of Washington Avenue Property.

A friendly suit was instituted in the Circuit Court late Friday afternoon between the heirs of William A. Hargadine to obtain authority of court for placing the property, 1416 Washington avenue, on the market.

According to the petition, which is for a construction of the will of William A. Hargadine, the property is valued at $100,000. It is held by William H. Thomson, cashier of the Boatmen's Bank; Edward J. Glasgow, Jr., and Otto U. Von Schrader as trustees under the will for the heirs.

BAD MINING STOCKS

THE LATE DR. M'KELLOPS HELD $98,700 WORTH.

INVENTORY OF HIS ESTATE

Pioneer Dentist Had the Finest Dental Laboratory in the World and Owned Many Diamonds.

When an impecunious patient paid the late Dr. H. J. McKellop for professional services with 100 shares of Granite Mountain mining stock, quoted at six cents a share, with no bids, he practically caused a reduction of almost $100,000 in the value of the estate left by the well known dentist. An inventory of the estate, which was filed in the Probate Court Saturday tells the story.

Dr. McKellops thought he was doing his patient a favor in accepting the stock, which was practically worthless at the time. Soon after Granite Mountain became a bonanza and Dr. McKellops' 100 shares climbed until he realized a handsome sum.

Friends of Dr. McKellops say that his interest in mining was aroused to such an extent by this venture in Granite Mountain that he invested heavily in various mines from that time until it became evident a few years ago that there was more to be lost than won in such speculation.

Dr. McKellops did not stop, however, until he had mining stocks representing $98,700. They are part of the estate which he left, but in the inventory they are listed as worthless.

The inventory is interesting further as showing the clientele of Dr. McKellops among the leading families of St. Louis, as well as for some of the articles listed. It shows that exclusive of the worthless mining stocks the estate amounted to $44,639.71.

Dr. McKellops was the owner of the finest dental library in the world. The only collection of books devoted exclusively to dentistry which approaches it in completeness is that of the Odontological Society of London. In the inventory the library is appraised at $3000, but this represents only its intrinsic value, the collection being such as would be difficult of reproduction at many times that figure.

He also possessed the most extensive collection of dental instruments and laboratory tools in the United States. These are listed at $2000. Under Dr. McKellops' will they go to his eldest son, Dr. Harry McKellops of San Francisco.

Diamonds had an attraction for Dr. McKellops, which he found it difficult to resist. In the personal property included in the inventory are a handsome diamond cross of seven stones, which he invariably wore in his shirt front; diamond cuff buttons, a diamond collar button and a three-stone diamond ring. A pair of gold suspender buckles is included.

Accounts against 87 patients, amounting to $4103.41, are listed. In the list are members of the most prominent families in St. Louis, the accounts ranging from $1 to $320.

The rest of the estate consists of about [illegible] worth of bric-a-brac, works of art and household furniture in the McKellops home, 3548 Lindell avenue, $150 cash and stocks with a total market value of $13,750.

POLICE CHIEFS TO GO EAST

Kiely and Desmond Will Study the Methods Prevailing in Departments in Other Cities.

Chief of Police Kiely and Chief of Detectives Desmond will attend the National Association of Chiefs of Police to be held in New York City May 28, in accordance with special instructions passed by the Board of Police Commissioners at their meeting Friday afternoon.

Coincident with this trip the chiefs have been notified to visit Boston, New York, Cincinnati and several other eastern cities to gather inspiration from the conduct of the police departments of those cities.

Resolutions were adopted by the board whereby probationary patrolmen in good standing appointed not later than Aug. 21, 1899, shall have the preference in the matter of promotion until 250 of the original appointees shall have been raised to the full rank of patrolmen.

Another resolution provides that a patrolman shall have served five years from the adoption of the new police manual before he may attain the rank of sergeant.

Charges of intoxication against Sergt. Richard Fay of the Deer Street Station were dismissed. Sergt. Fay had not even been suspended by Capt. Campbell pending the hearing of the charges.

Patrolman J. B. Johnson was exonerated from a similar accusation.

Probationary Patrolman Martin Wall of the Deer Street Station, accused of intoxication and unbecoming conduct in the office of Chief of Police Kiely, was dismissed from the force. The same fate befell Probationary Patrolman Charles M. Fisher, who assaulted Sergt. Nugent.

SHOWED SHOE AS EVIDENCE.

Mrs. Reed Indignantly Denied That She Wears a No. 7.

Chicago feet were disclaimed by Mrs. Mary Reed, whose suit against the city of Mexico, Mo., was on trial in the Circuit Court at Clayton Friday. Mrs. Reed, who is from Moberly, alleges that she stepped through a crack in a sidewalk at Mexico and received injuries for which she seeks to recover $20,000.

Attorney W. W. Fry of Mexico represented his home town. He brought along as an exhibit in evidence the section of sidewalk Mrs. Reed fell on. He also brought one of Mrs. Reed's shoes.

Mr. Fry exhibited the crack in the sidewalk to the jury, at the same time holding up the shoe. He argued that only an extremely small foot could go through that crack, whereas the plaintiff possessed at least a No. 7.

At this the plaintiff became indignant. Holding up the shoe she said to the jury:

"Now, just look at the size of this shoe and judge for yourselves whether my foot is a No. 7!"

The incident created a ripple of excitement in the courtroom.

CUT HIS OWN THROAT.

August Wagner, Sick, Severs His Jugular Vein.

August Wagner severed his jugular vein with a razor while lying in bed at his home, 1910 Bissell street, early Saturday morning. Dr. Ross, Dr. Badger and Dr. Magowan say that there are no chances for his recovery. Chronic painters' colic induced the deed.

Mrs. Fanny Wagner had just served breakfast at her husband's bedside when Wagner reached under a pillow. Drawing the keen weapon from its hiding place he pressed it deep into his throat.

The act had been anticipated by Dr. Badger, in whose presence Wagner made suicidal threats last Christmas.

There are four sons in the family. Wagner is 43 years old.

SPLIT ON POSSE ITEM

NO REPORT YET ON TEMPORARY APPROPRIATION BILL.

JOINT COMMITTEE DIVIDED

Posse Comitatus Account Voted by the House to City Departments Said to Be in the Way.

The House of Delegates met Saturday morning and adjourned without receiving any report upon the temporary appropriation bill, now in the hands of a joint conference committee of the House and Council.

Speaker Cronin told the Post-Dispatch after the meeting that he did not think the committee would succeed in reaching an agreement on the details of the bill. The item of $102,000 for the posse comitatus, which the House voted to divert to city departments, will, he says, be the rock on which the committee will split.

Chairman Joseph Boyce of the Council committee on ways and means said Saturday that no time for a meeting of the conference committee had been set, and that the Council members of the committee would wait for the House members to set the date.

Councilmen Sheehan and Newell are Mr. Boyce's colleagues, and Delegates Sweeney, Kelley and Williams are the House members of the joint committee.

City employes, anxious to learn when they would receive pay for their work during April, were in the lobby of the House at Saturday's meeting. The only business transacted by the House was the passage of a sewer bill introduced by Mr. Geraghty.

It was moved that the House adjourn until 5 o'clock Tuesday, but Delegate John Burke said that the Council had not considered the House's convenience and that the House should meet at its customary hour. This opinion prevailed, and the time for the next meeting was set at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

KIND DEED WAS PROFITABLE

Riches and Lands Bequeathed to Saloonkeeper Kempf by a Physician He Had Befriended.

The role of the Good Samaritan as performed by Paul F. Kempf, a saloon keeper at Eighteenth and Chestnut streets, has made him the heir to the estate of Dr. John T. Bowser of Eminence, Mo., through the terms of the will of the deceased, which was filed for probate at Eminence April 26.

The bequest, which consists of several thousand dollars and 640 acres of mineral lands in Shannon County, is Kempf's reward for befriending Dr. Browser when he needed assistance while visiting St. Louis about twelve years ago. The physician told Kempf that he would not forget him.

Notice to Kempf that he was the sole beneficiary of the will came to him Saturday through Attorney Brock Storts, who received the notification from the clerk of the Probate Court of Shannon County.

Attorney Storts says that the mineral land left to Kempf was formerly worked by Logan D. Dameron, who conducted the Christian Advocate in this city prior to his death in 1891. C. T. Biser, an attorney, was associated with Dameron. The partners got a good yield from the property. Kempf will leave the city in a few days to establish his identity as legatee.

ST. LOUIS PIGEON'S BAD LUCK.

Carrier Released at Poplar Bluff, Mo., Wounded Near Belleville.

A carrier pigeon, owned by Ernest Sheble, 15 years old, of 4485 Forest Park boulevard, was captured by John Bedirt of Belleville near Brandenburg, St. Clair County, Ill. Its right wing and right leg were broken.

Tied around the leg was a rag with the address of the owner and the number of the pigeon, N. H. 23,756.

A number of pigeons belonging to the Homing Club of St. Louis were taken to Poplar Bluff, Mo., last Sunday morning for a trial fly. Two pigeons belonging to Ernest Sheble were among the number. One of the pigeons released returned home five hours after being set at liberty. The other did not return, and it was thought that it may have been blown from its course.

The pigeon found near Belleville was left in the care of Mr. Harrison of the Hartnagel & Harrison Drug Co., who attended to the bird's injuries.

WORLD'S FAIR HOTEL OPPOSED

Forest Park Place Lot Owners Ask for Injunction on Ground That Building Will Cheapen Property.

Proceedings were begun in the Circuit Court Saturday to force a cessation of work on the World's Fair Hotel, for which excavations are being made in Forest Park place, the new residence subdivision in King's highway, just north of Portland place.

William B. Field and other property owners in Forest Park place seek an injunction on the ground that the erection of the hotel is in violation of restrictions in the deed under which the property is held and will depreciate the value of other real estate in the subdivision.

The defendants are William L. Denham, Afton K. Wooten, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Wooten and Charles W. McFarland.

The petition alleges that when the subdivision was established by the Park Place Realty Co., in 1892, a large sum was expended in laying out streets, constructing granitoid sidewalks and erecting an ornamental entrance in King's highway. It was intended for a residence subdivision exclusively, and every deed to the lots sold contained a clause describing the character of the buildings to be erected and limiting them to one on every 50 feet of ground.

Two lots fronting 106 feet on the north side of the subdivision at King's highway were sold for $12,583 in 1893 and after several transfers were purchased by the defendants for $13,700, last April. The plaintiffs maintain that the restriction clause remained in force in spite of the numerous transfers.

Under the plans submitted to Building Commissioner Longfellow, on which the permit for the erection of the hotel was issued, an expenditure of $50,000 is contemplated by the projectors.

Property owners in Forest Park place, who have formed an association to prevent violations of the restriction clause, have two other suits of a similar nature pending, the proposed structures in those cases being rows of flats.

VISITOR WAS ROBBED TWICE

Dr. Purvis, a New York Dentist, Has Two Exciting Experiences in St. Louis.

Dr. John O. Purvis, a dentist of New York City, who is staying at the Barnum Hotel at Sixth street and Washington avenue, was robbed in the business district of the city Thursday night and again Friday afternoon, each time by two men who threatened him with revolvers.

His loss Thursday night was $35 and Friday night $75, a gold watch, a diamond ring and his overcoat were taken from him.

The first robbery was committed at Washington avenue and Sixth street, as Purvis told Police Captain Reynolds at the Four Courts Station. The second robbery occurred at Seventh and Biddle streets at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

James Holmes and Peter Melvin were arrested by Detective Roach on Biddle street Friday night and taken to the Four Courts, where Purvis identified them as the men who had perpetrated the second robbery.

GARMENT CUTTERS OBJECT.

Want Local Letter Carriers' Uniforms Made in St. Louis.

Resolutions were adopted at the last meeting of Garment Cutters' Union, No. 26, of St. Louis to the effect that St. Louis letter carriers "are led to believe that they must" get their uniforms from a Cincinnati firm; that "this is detrimental to the laboring and manufacturing interests of St. Louis," and requesting Postmaster Baumhoff to post notices informing carriers that they may have their uniforms made in St. Louis is they see fit to do so.

"The Garment Workers' committee has not yet called on me," said Postmaster Baumhoff Saturday. "I will be glad to see the committee, and I think I can show them a few things about the subject under discussion.

"Ever since I have been in this office I have tried to favor home talent in everything possible. I have tried to do so in this matter. I will show the committee documents on the subject.

"My efforts in that line were not successful for the reason that the St. Louis firms which offered attractive bids were the kind that were objectionable to the labor organizations because they employed non-union labor. With many of those who did employ union labor the goods were not first-class and the prices were exorbitant.

"A Cincinnati firm has been making the postoffice uniforms for years before I became postmaster. Under Carlisle, and, I believe, under Harlow. When I found that I could not get what I wanted in St. Louis, I decided to continue with this firm, which furnishes union-made suits of good quality at reasonable prices."

DOLE WILL BE LEFT ALONE.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Officials who are acquainted with the President's views regarding the legislative session in Hawaii do not believe Mr. McKinley will be inclined to take notice of the memorial from the Hawaiian legislature urging Gov. Dole's removal, certainly not without a full explanation from the governor.

The friction which exists between Gov. Dole and the legislature has been known for months, but the President, believing the Hawaiians should work out their own salvation, has taken no steps to interfere. Officials who discussed the matter said Gov. Dole has acted within his authority in refusing an extension.

THE INAUGURAL RACE TRACK IS LUMPY

Race Will Be Severe on Horses With Tender Feet or Weak Tendons.

BIG ATTENDANCE IS EXPECTED

Twenty-Six Entries Are Regarded as Probable, Including W. J. Deboe, Silverdale, Duelist, Tulla Fonso and Others.

SELECTIONS.

First Race—Maximus, Bowen, Fred Hessig.

Second Race—Col. Gay, Eight Bells, William Boyer.

Third Race—Lemuel, Kaloma, Queen Burlington.

Fourth Race—Inaugural—W. J. Deboe, Dissenter, Wall.

Fifth Race—Nobleman, Wax Taper, Kindred.

Sixth Race—Zonne, Sam Lazarus, Eda Riley.

Seventh Race—Sue Johnson, Hi Kollar, Tea Gown.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FAIR GROUNDS, May 11—The Inaugural, the first classic event of the St. Louis racing season, will be run over a track that will be extremely severe on horses that are not strong or have tender feet, or weak tendons.

The indications yesterday were that the track would be good if not actually fast, but the heavy shower this morning did away with that blithesome prospect. This morning the course was lumpy and wet, with every indication that no matter how much work was done on it the going would be bad this afternoon.

Horsemen are inclined to think that the track would be in better condition if horses had been permitted to exercise on it. The inside track, where the thoroughbreds take their morning gallops, is in much better shape than the big track, and this is pointed to as proof that the more a course is used the better it becomes, particularly in a wet season.

The big track was sowed in rye last fall, however, and it may be that the soil has too much life in it to dry out as rapidly as the exercise course.

Be that as it may, the horse that wins the Inaugural will have rough going, and this prospect may reduce the number of starters.

What will win, and what will the time be?

Those are the questions now agitating the minds of the speculators.

The race will hardly be run in better time than 1:44, and even that is faster than most of the experts expect. As to what will win, no man can say with any degree of certainty, but this morning it looked like W. J. De Boe had the best of the argument. The colt is on edge, and was brought here from Chicago for no purpose except to win this race, and he figures a shade better than any of the others. He is a bright bay colt three years old by Kismet—Solitaire, and James Arthur owns him. He is a small horse, but he looks every inch a racer, and with but 92 pounds on his back he should run like a scared ghost. His best chance is thought to be to get out in front and stay there, and if his jockey can start well he will probably try to do this.

Still there are some other light-weighted flyers in the race, and it is entirely within the bounds of possibility that one of these may race the Chicago horse off his feet, and, if he doesn't win himself, permit some of the others to take first money.

Sharp Bird was the steed selected by some of the wise ones to do this trick, but the Texas horse is at his best only on a good track, and it is doubtful that he will be started.

Wall is another swift proposition, but he also likes it smooth under foot. Wall will start, however, and if Winslett gets him off well he will probably finish in the money.

Tayon is tipped by several respectable authorities to win, but in the face of his recent performance it doesn't seem possible. Dominick will ride him, however, and that counts for something, particularly when the field is large.

Tulla Fonso is very good just now, and will carry a sack of money.

Dissenter's magnificent showing in his last out, when he won at a mile and a sixteenth, one mile of which he negotiated in 1:42, makes him the favored of a very respectable contingent. Duelist was expected to be the favorite, but the beating that he got in ordinary company last Monday has soured the form players on him.

Silverdale, the practically certain Schorr starter, should not be overlooked.

Duelist took his measure at Memphis, but that is said to have been because the Schorr horse was sent out to make the running for a stable mate that couldn't deliver the goods, and was tired when Chinn's colt collared him. Miller will ride Silverdale. With Johnnie Woods up it is believed he would have a beter chance. Orleans will not start unless something entirely unexpected turns up before the time for declarations, which is 45 minutes before the race.

If the track were in the condition that it was expected to be in yesterday there would be about 15 starters. As it is it is not likely that more than ten will face Mr. Bruen.

The value of the stake is about $3500—more than ever before for this event.

Interest in the other races of the day is overshadowed by the Inaugural, but for all that it is an excellent card. There are seven races on the program, and in several of them the fields are large and meritorious.

UPHOLDS THE SHAMROCK II.

English Critic Says Adverse Criticism of Her Now Is Worthless.

LONDON, May 11.—The Field in today's issue refrains from criticism upon the performances of Shamrock II, which, it says, have been merely sail stretching, and should not be regarded as tests. The Field praises the "faultless manner in which she opens and leaves the water," declaring that any adverse criticisms as to her wave-making should be dismissed as worthless.

"Although the ex-challenger appears to be faster than when she met the Columbia," says the Field, "there are no means of proving that she is faster, as she is under different trim, with a longer load water-line. Therefore, it will be difficult to estimate the difference in speed between the challenger and the Columbia."

CONTEST FOR WITHERS STAKES

Croker, Keene, Dave Morris and Others Will Have Horses in the Big Race.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Six crack 3-year-olds probably will face the starter this afternoon to race for the Withers stakes, the first of the great 3-year-old contests of the year. The race will be over the Withers mile. The conditions require that colts shall carry 126 pounds, fillies 121 pounds and geldings 123 pounds. All the entries belong to the first-named class, so that the weights will be even.

Richard Croker's Bellario, Frank Farrell's Bonnibert, James R. Keene's Commando, Alfred Hennen and Dave Morris' Smile, C. T. Patterson's All Green and R. T. Wilson's The Parader will divide honors somewhere among them.

Of the likely starters all but Commando have had public trials this year, and he is reported to be ready. Still, those who believe that private trials cannot take the place of actual racing in the preparation of a racehorse will have their money on another colt.

Bonnibert covered the Withers mile on Thursday with 111 pounds up, in 1:42¼, beating the lightly laden Dr. Barlow in a drive.

Bellario ran a pretty bad race in the Metropolitan a week ago.

The Parader ran the Withers mile on Tuesday with an impost of 109 pounds in the fast time of 1:41, beating Sidney Lucas easily by a length.

On the same day Smile performed most impressively, winning the Larchmont stakes.

All Green's rattling good race from a bad start in the Metropolitan will also find Mr. Patterson's colt many backers for the Withers.

It seems like an unusually open race, unless Commando regains his best 2-year-old form.

It is possible that if the track is not in good condition after the two days' rain, one or more of the 2-year-olds may be withdrawn.

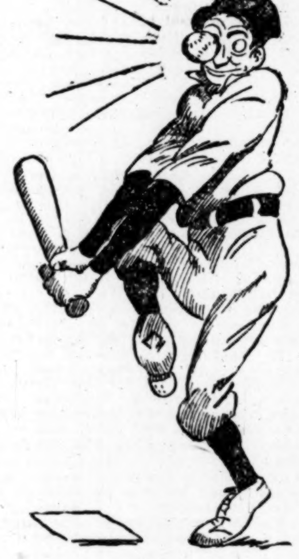
BASEBALL COMEDIES.

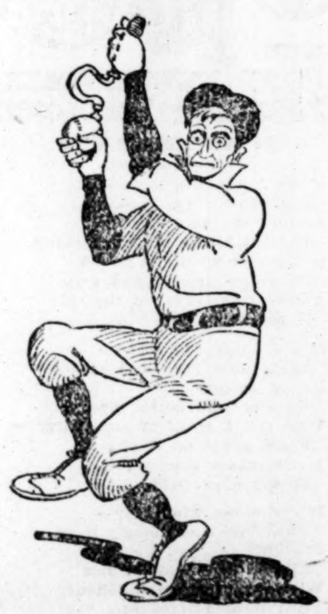
By a Post-Dispatch Poet-Artist.

COMEDY NO. 1.



Here's the man who took a highball
On the convex of his eyeball,
And it made him drunk and dizzy:
While the rooters shrieked: "Oh, fie, ball!
You must be a button shy, ball!
You're a lobster! you're a Lizzie!
If his mouth instead of eyeball
You'd have tackled thus, O. highball!
He'd have gulped you at a swallow:
For what player of or by ball
Ever yet refused a highball
Or the three or four that follow?
Thus you would have had a rest
Underneath his fancy vest."

COMEDY NO. 2.



Now we know how Harper curves it
So he can the sphere deliver
(Though redhot this pitcher serves it)
In a style to make one shiver.

With a corkscrew for a twister
First he puts the curves into it,
Then he takes a magic fist or
Two and deftly doth hoodoo it.

When with corkscrew curves it quits him
There's no telling where 'twill land at;
But the batter—if it hits him—
Surely knows he's not been fanned at.

DILLON LED THEM ALL

WON POINT CUP AT W. U. FIELD DAY EXERCISES.

STRONG TEAM WAS DEVELOPED

Individual Performances Were Not Remarkable, but the Showing Augurs Well for 'Varsity Athletics.

Washington University demonstrated Friday at its eighteenth annual field day, held at Pastime Park, that it has the makings of a strong athletic team. Indications of this are not to be found in the summaries of the various results, for the records made were for the most part mediocre and in many cases quite scholastic.

Sessinghaus' 5 3-5s for the 50 yards and Brey's 10 3-5s for 100-yard dash are the most creditable marks of the meeting.

It is when the meager training and poor facilities of the Washington men are considered that the events of Friday show well for the future of the 'varsity's athletics. The men, with the exception of Dillon, Sessinghaus and one or two others, had no style whatever, and that systematic training and coaching would work wonders with them is unquestionable.

Individually, Dillin, Brey, Diehl, Cram and Sessinghaus were the best of the lot. Dillon, notwithstanding his bad knee and the poor start he made, won the point cup, offered to the man making the highest number of events. Dillon landed first in the 220-yard dash and in the high hurdles and captured seconds in the shot-put, the 220-yard hurdles and the 50-yard dash, with thirds in the hammer and discus throws.

Brey, who finished second to him, got only one first, the 100-yard dash, but picked up three seconds and two thirds.

Diehl and Cram each won three firsts.

Sessinghaus got two firsts, a second and a third.

Cram was the dark horse of the day and in the middle distance and mile events led his opponents with apparent ease. It is unfortunate that this promising young performer is entered in only one event at the intercollegiate meeting next Saturday.

The officials in charge of the meet were as follows: F. Lane, referee; J. B. Van Vleck, starter; judges, M. L. Snow, William J. Schuyler, R. D. Bland and G. Alleman; timers, E. H. Keiser, T. E. Nipher and Alfred Smith; clerks of course, Newman Samuels, James W. Smith and J. E. Scheel; scorers, F. S. Codding, H. A. Dawes and F. T. Cutts; announcer, C. M. Woodward. Summary:

LONDON, May 11.—Tod Sloan almost despairs of obtaining a renewal of his riding license from the English Jockey Club. He has been canvassing all the most influential men connected with the turf, but has found no support.

The death of Lord William Beresford was an irremediable loss to Sloan, for Lord William gave him powerful backing.

Earl Harewood, late steward of the Jockey Club, is outspoken in his objection to Sloan. So is Earl Clonmel, who visited the United States last year.

It was Rube Waddell's day to shine Friday in the game between St. Louis and Chicago baseball teams. Jones, for St. Louis, shone also, but his light was eclipsed by that of the former Pirate, whose benders and shoots sent the Cardinals to defeat by a score of 4 to 1. It was not alone the pitching of Waddell, but his batting, as well, that put brackets around his name for the first time with the Chicago Club. With two men on bases in the fifth inning he lined out a home run, practically winning the game. The other tally made by the Chicagoese was secured in the next inning on hits by Raymer and McCormick.

St. Louis played good ball, apparently. In the field they put up a perfect game, but at the bat Waddell's mysterious dispensations were enigmas to the Cardinal batters.

Five hits with a total of seven bases was all that Waddell allowed them, and of these McGann made two. Chicago was not remarkably strong with the willow, making but seven hits off Jones' delivery; but the timeliness of Waddell's drive made up for all deficiencies in number.

Jones did very well, though in the fifth and sixth it looked as if he might go ballooning. The steady work of the supporting fielders saved him, however, and he eased through without going to the bench.

It certainly appears ominous for the future of the local team when they cannot beat Chicago and Cincinnati. If the team expects to shake the mire of the lower League strata from its feet it ought to be able to run away from the tail-enders.

It is evident that the Cardinals will this season have that exasperating faculty which featured their playing of last year—that of being able to play fast ball against strong teams and performing like amateurs against weak ones. It is only fair to say, however, that St. Louis has for the most part played at least decent ball in the field so far this season, and most of their defeats may be laid to inferior pitching. Harper's good work shows what might happen if the team possessed a quartet of good twirlers.

Saturday Chicago will have another fling at the Cardinals. It is hoped they will not be too severe with their rivals for tail-end honors.

League Park grand stand will be rebuilt at once, notwithsanding the refusal of Building Commissioner Longfellow to issue a permit to the American Athletic Exhibition Co., a few days ago, to rebuild the structure of wood.

President Robison of the exhibition company and Architect John L. Wees presented the case to the mayor Friday and submitted plans of the structure they proposed to erect, which had been approved by the representative of the insurance companies. The specifications call for a wooden building.

The plans were submitted to a board of appeals, the members of which are R. E. McMath, Lewis J. Evans and William Eames, and after deliberation this body decided that the permit be issued. The new stand, as contemplated, will be lower than the old one, the audience will be seated closer to the ground and numerous exits to the field are provided in case of fire.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY BRIEFLY TOLD

McGowan had little trouble in defeating White in Friday night's pool tournament game at the Grand, the latter scoring but 79 balls, while the former ran his string of 125. Saturday night Jones and McGowan will play the concluding game of the tournament. The winner will get first money for the series and the loser second. White has already won third place.

The High School athletes will hold their sixth annual field meeting Saturday afternoon at Pastime grounds. The boys have been training and practicing faithfully. The trial heats which were run off last Wednesday indicate that some fast contests may be expected. The 100-yard dash is the first event on the program, and the start will be made promptly at 2 o'clock.

Dr. J. W. Smith, holder of the Diel shooting trophy, has been challenged to shoot for that emblem by J. H. Conrades. The cup represents the amateur trapshooting championship of the state. The challenge has been accepted, and the match is scheduled to occur at Dupont Park, May 19.

REGAL SHOES $3.50

Tannery to Consumer

King Kid has all the desirable features and none of the disadvantages of Imported French Kid.

French Kid, although smooth and attractive when new, is not durable. It shows the slightest bruise, and the grain quickly peels off.

King Kid, on the contrary, is soft and glovey to the touch, handsome in appearance, and also wonderfully tough and strong. This exceptional strength makes it possible for King Kid to withstand the severest tests in men's shoes as well as women's. French Kid, because of its weakness, is never expected to withstand hard usage in a man's shoe.

King Kid can be obtained only in Regal Shoes. It will be of no use to ask for King Kid in other shoe stores. It cannot be obtained.

Regal Shoes are exact duplicates in style of the patterns made by the highest-priced custom bootmakers of London, Paris and New York.

LEARNING TO LIVE TOGETHER.

Mr. Henry B. Fuller of Chicago, the novelist, makes this searching observation on urban incapacity:

"Two million country people live in Chicago and fancy that they make a city. Seven-eighths of our people are totally without the urban tradition. Of the native half, the great bulk are from the small towns and farms of the Mississippi Valley. The foreign half are very largely from the rural districts of the Continent."

In this brief paragraph Mr. Fuller suggests the cause and cure of urban sinfulness.

The saying, "God made the country and man made the town," that falls trippingly from so many thoughtless tongues will not bear analysis.

The modern city is of natural, but recent, growth, and people have not yet learned how to get along together at such close quarters in an orderly, social fashion. But they must learn.

The truth is that most of the conditions of modern life are new and unfamiliar. Within a hundred years science has changed the aspect of society and profoundly altered its constitution. The new problems are not easily solved and the municipal question is one of the most difficult.

It is not strange that there are faults and vices in city government. It would be strange if there were not. But that they will be overcome and city life made, not only endurable, but agreeable and human no one in his five senses will deny.

◆◆◆

With an appropriation of $250,000 for the World's Fair, a law making it a felony to threaten to kidnap persons or destroy property for the purpose of extorting money or other valuable considerations, and a law limiting the levy of taxes by municipalities for municipal purposes to 5 per cent, Illinois ought to get on very well.

THE SUICIDE'S SMILE.

A remarkable story of suicide was told in Thursday's and Friday's Post-Dispatch.

An unknown man had gone into a saloon, placed a revolver against the top of his head and fired downward, so that the bullet came out at the base of the brain. A fixed smile appeared on the features. It looked like the smile of peace and perfect contentment.

Why this smile? Unexplained, it might encourage others to follow the suicide's example. Can it be explained?

The study of physiology has proved that certain regions of the brain govern certain muscles. Pressure or shock on those regions causes action in the corresponding muscles, connected by certain bundles of nerves.

May it not have been that this suicide, by his peculiar method of firing from above downwards caused the shock which naturally resulted in contracting the facial muscles into the semblance of a smile? May not the peace and contentment have been merely a simulation—mechanical and meaningless?

The would-be destroyer of himself should not reckon too much on a suicide's smile. It may be merely a helpless grin of death.

PREACHERS AND SUMMER VACATIONS

Is a minister entitled to a three months' vacation in summer?

Banker Warner Vannorden of New York says "no."

Addressing the Presbyterian Union, Mr. Vannorden said: "It has become nothing less than a scandal that so many ministers leave their churches for three or four months of the year. Merchants and bankers do not get any such vacations. We are not able to take them. There are a million people living in tenements, and they cannot go away for the summer."

True, and so much the worse for the merchants, bankers and tenement house dwellers.

Mr. Vannorden goes at the wrong end of the problem. Instead of reducing the preachers' vacation he should enlarge the bankers' and merchants'. He should agitate for a vacation for everybody.

Conditions of modern business are very exacting and little liberty seems to be possible. But this is no reason why those who are not tied up by business duties should submit to business conditions. If the preachers can enjoy summer vacations without detriment to their flock, why begrudge them the pleasure?

A MATRIMONIAL COLLEGE.

The matrimonial college just starting in London, a detailed account of which appears in Friday's Post-Dispatch, will meet a long-felt want.

In this school will be taught household accounts, cooking, dressmaking, needlework, laundering, hygiene, etc. The would-be brides will be given points on stews, roasts and fish, to say nothing of the delicacies of the dessert, and she will learn how to manage the grocer, control the help and face the butcher without quailing. In short, she will be instructed comprehensively and thoroughly in domestic science.

The idea is so good and practical that the wonder is it has not been realized before.

The average young woman knows little or nothing of the practical duties of housekeeping. Mother usually hangs on tenaciously to the government and the daughter is excluded from the cabinet. The consequence is that when the girl marries she often seeks the protectorate of her own mother or submits to that of her mother-in-law. She declares that she is and of right ought to be free and independent, but when it comes to the pinch she discovers that the declaration is a string of glittering generalities and that independence is a plant of slow and painful growth.

To enable her to set up for herself this matrimonial college is established. There ought to be one in every county in the United States.

This done, it will be in order to build similar colleges to teach young men how to become good husbands.

The passage of the World's Fair site bill by the House of Delegates was wise and patriotic. It removes a considerable obstacle from the path of World's Fair progress, and will safeguard the company against a speculative raid. Forest Park may or may not be chosen But, while the company has this privilege, it need not be the victim of a grab. If fair terms cannot be obtained from real estate owners the park is open for use as a site. By the terms of the ordinance the company is bound to restore the park to its natural condition. This should set at rest all fears that the people's pleasure ground may be destroyed or permanently disfigured. On the contrary, there is reason to believe that the park will be very much improved in the reconstruction following the Fair.

CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION.

The recent conference in New York of leading representatives of capital and labor to consider remedies for strikes is a hopeful sign.

Conciliation and arbitration in some form must be the recourse. On this point all agreed. The old-fashioned passionate, lawless method of settling such controversies found no advocates, all speakers of note uniting to plead for a more temperate and humane method of composing industrial struggles.

The principal point of difference arises over the proposal of compulsory arbitration. Although in New Zealand the principle of compulsion has been adopted, and seems to give satisfaction, it is perhaps due to the special circumstances of that country. In this country public opinion seems not ready to accept a proposal so drastic.

But while most of the speakers at this conference spoke doubtfully of the expediency of compulsion, all concurred in the opinion that strikes were worse than useless. A way out must be found. Resort to crude and antiquated means will no longer be advocated by intelligent labor organizations if any other can be found.

The conference is noteworthy not so much because of the conclusions reached as for the friendly spirit in which the representatives of capital and the unions discussed the matter. Good temper and a tactful consideration for others will do much to prevent such quarrels and to settle those peacefully when unhappily they do occur.

THE NEWEST BOOKS.

M. MAURICE MAETERLINCK'S new book is to be published at the beginning of May. It is entitled "The Life of the Bee." Broadly speaking (says the London Daily Chronicle) the book is a comparison of the wonderful life and economy of the bee with the lives of men. That is, the idea, but the methods used to give it expression are those which belong to all M. Maeterlinck's writings. English admirers of him who have seen the full book expect it to attract attention.

THERE have been numerous stories of adult Indian life, but the attempt to trace an Indian from the cradle to manhood and put the reader in touch with his thought is something new. In "The Childhood of Ji-Shib the Ojibwa" Albert Ernest Jenks does this in a captivating manner. It is a story of unspoiled aboriginal life. Ernest Seton Thompson, the well-known author of animal stories, says of "Ji-Shib:"

"I have read it with great pleasure and I envy you your store of Ojibwa lore."

The book contains 64 pen sketches of Indian odds and ends. It is a book that will please the children especially, as the style is simple and kindly, in contrast with much of the strenuous literature which has portrayed the Indian merely as a brave. "Ji-Shib" is published by the American Thresherman, Madison, Wis.

PROF. HENRY VAN DYKE, writing of Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer's novel, "Robert Annys, Poor Priest," says that the author has chosen a wonderfully interesting period for the scene of her tale and that she has studied it with a conscientious care which shows on every page. She feels what so many romancers miss—the significance of the social movement. And at the same time she follows the golden thread of a charming love story.

ZOLA'S latest novel, which is entitled "Labor," has been appearing in an abridged form in Harper's Weekly, and has just been published in its complete form by Messrs. Harper & Bros. In this novel, as the title would suggest, Zola treats of the relations existing between the workman and the capitalist, and he ventures to make certain predictions concerning the future of both. Yet Zola is not a dreamer. He is an uncompromising realist, and for this reason his forecast of the coming industrial era, based on broad facts of observation and free from Utopian fancies, should attract the attention, as it deserves the careful study, of industrialists and political economists. The romance of the story is unusually strong and absorbing for Zola, and serves as a buoyant current on which to carry the doctrines which the novel is intended to teach.

Literary Notes.

Richard Whiteing is closely engaged on a new work, particulars of which will soon be forthcoming.

In Curent Literature for May appears a singularly beautiful, a highly poetic and yet scientific account of the birth and life of queen bees—an advance chapter from a forthcoming book by Maurice Maeterlinck on the Bee.

In "Content in a Garden," a volume soon to be issued, Mrs. Candace Wheeler, the author, pleasantly mingles literature and gardening. The garden she writes about is in the Catskills, where it is splendidly set among the mountains.

In a single day recently 125 members of the New York Stock Exchange bought copies of "To the Healing of the Sea," the new stock brokers' novel that is scoring such a success in England. Drexel Biddle, the American publisher, has received some very annoying communications about this book: It is claimed by some to be an expose of certain shady financiering in New York, of recent date.

"Familiar Fish, their Habits and Capture," by Eugene McCarty, published by D. Appleton & Co., is one of the first of the outdoor books to tempt Nature-lovers and sportsmen, and it is said that the spring demand for the book is exceptionally large, in spite of the month of rain which has interfered so much with the plans of fishermen.

"Under the Redwoods" is the title of the latest collection of stories by Bret Harte, which Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish in April. No writer of stories is more popular than Mr. Harte, and in his latest volume he takes for his characters the sailors, globe-trotters, Indians, vagabonds and Chinamen whom he has always made so interesting; and, as of old, he pictures some charming girls and women.

"Weeds by the Wall" is the title of a new volume of poems by Madison Cawein, which is to be published at once by John P. Morton & Co., Louisville, Ky. Most of the poems included in this book have appeared during the past two years in the best magazines and periodicals of the East. The publishers intend making the volume a most attractive one, both in printing and binding. The edition will be limited to 350 copies; ready June 1.

Miss Baare in Amateur Drama.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I, who have known Miss Baare for 10 years, know that she was a girl who disliked ostentation and publicity, although the life of every company she ever entered into.

A truer, sweeter and more unselfish girl than she never lived, and even while she was not justified in doing as she did, she did it all through her unselfishness, and no doubt thought she sacrificed herself for the sake of her mother's happiness.

Many who do not know the circumstances of the case judge her very harshly, but let them beware and "judge not that they be not judged."

FAMOUS SHORT STORIES

BOWLDER'S BURGLAR

By Alfred Henry Lewis.

BOWLDER'S wife and offspring were away at the time; and the time was a night last summer. Mrs. B. was in Long Branch, and Bowlder, left lonely and forlorn, to look after the house and earn money, was having a sad, bad time, indeed.

Not that Bowlder really lacked anything; but he missed his wife and little ones. Where before the merry prattle of his children made the racket of a boiler shop, all was solemn peace and hush. The Bowlder mansion was like a graveyard.

Naturally Bowlder felt lonesome; and to avoid, as much as might be, having his loneliness thrust upon him by the empty desolation of the house, he made it a rule during his wife's absence not to go home until 3 o'clock a. m.

He was "dead on his legs" by that time, as he expressed it, and went at once to sleep, before the absence of Mrs. B. began to prey upon him.

On the night, or more properly morning, in question, Bowlder wended homeward at sharp 3. He had been missing Mrs. B. painfully all the evening, and, to uphold himself, subscribed to divers drinks. These last Bowlder put safely away within his belt, and they cherished him and taught him resignation, and he didn't miss his wife as much as he had.

The hoary truth is that as Bowlder drew near his home he had so far conquered his sense of abandonment that he wasn't even thinking of his wife. He was plodding along in the middle of the street for fear of footpads, whom he fancied might be sauntering in the shadows on either side, and was really in quite a happy, fortunate frame of mind. As Bowlder turned in toward his door he was softly repeating the lines:

> 'Tis sweet to hear the watchdog's honest bark,
> Bay deep-mouthed welcome as we draw near home,
> 'Tis sweet to know there is an eye will mark
> Our coming and grow brighter when we come.

Not that Bowlder had a watchdog, honest or otherwise, to bay him deep-mouthed welcome. And inasmuch as they had discharged the exile from Erin, who aforetime did service as the Bowlder maid-of-all-work, when Mrs. B. took flight for the summer, there was slight hope of an eye on the premises to grow brighter when he came.

No; it was not that Bowlder was really looking for deep-mouthed bays or brightening eyes; he was naturally musical and poetical, and the drinks he had corralled had unlocked his nature in that behalf. Bowlder was reciting the lines quoted for the pleasure he drew from their beauty; not from the prophecy they put forth of any meeting to which he looked forward. A remark which escaped Bowlder as he climbed his steps and dexterously fitted his nightkey to the day keyhole showed this.

"I ought to have stayed at a hotel," said Bowlder. "There's nobody here to rake me over the coals for it, and I'm going to have a great head on me when I wake up."

Bowlder at last, by mistake, got his latchkey into the keyhole to which it related, and the door swung inward. This was a distinct success and Bowlder heaved a breath of relief. This door, which had grown singularly obdurate since Mrs. B.'s departure, had been known to hold Bowlder at bay for 20 minutes.

Bowlder had just cast his hat on the hall floor—he intended to hang it up in the morning when he would have more time—and got as far on a journey to the second story as one step, when a noise in the basement dining room enlisted Bowlder's attention. His curiosity rather than his fears was aroused; another happy effect of of his libations.

Without one thought of burglars, Bowlder deferred his journey upstairs and repaired instead to the dining room below. Bowlder would investigate the untoward noises, which, while soft and light, were still of such volume as might tell upon the ear.

"Wonder 'f the houshe is haunted?" observed Bowlder as he went deviously below.

It has already been noted that Bowlder not once bethought him of burglars. In truth he had often scoffed at burglars while conversing with Mrs. B. on this subject so interesting to ladies. Bowlder had said that no burglar could make day wages robbing the house.

It had all the thrill of perfect surprise then when, as Bowlder turned into his dining room, he beheld a bull's-eye lantern shedding a malevolent stream of light in his face, and caught the shadowy outlines of a tall man behind it who seemed engaged in pointing a pistol at him.

"Hold up your hands!" said the tall man, "and don't come a step further, or out goes your light!"

"Well! I like thish!" squeaked Bowlder, in a tone of querulous complaint, at the same time, however, clasping his hands above his head; "I like thish! What's the row here?"

The tall man made no reply, but came across and deftly ran his hands over Bowlder for possible arms. Bowlder had no gun. The tall man seemed satisfied, and stepping back, told Bowlder he might sit down on a chair and rest his hands in his lap. Bowlder took advantage of the permission.

"Any 'bjections to me lighting a shegar?" queried Bowlder.

"Not at all," said the tall man.

Bowlder was soon puffing away. Being friendly, not to say polite by nature, Bowlder bestowed one on his visitor.

"Is it a mild cigar?" asked the burglar.

"Colorado claro," said Bowlder.

"That's all right!" assented the other. "I don't like a strong smoke; it makes my headache."

As the visitor lighted the cigar Bowlder noticed that he wore a black mask across his eyes, and that the latter shone through the apertures cut for their convenience like beads. The mask gave Bowlder a chill which the pistol had not evoked. Indeed, it came very near destroying the whole force of the drinks he had accumulated.

When the stranger had lighted his cigar, Bowlder and he puffed at each other for a moment without a word.

"What are you doing in my houshe?" at last demanded Bowlder.

The stranger smiled and puffed on. Then he kicked a large sack with his foot. Bowlder had not observed this sack before. As the stranger touched it with his foot it gave a metallic clinking.

Bowlder's eyes roamed instinctively to the sideboard. There wasn't much light; enough, however, to show Bowlder that the sideboard's burden of silverware was gone. With such a start, Bowlder was able to infer a great deal.

"Made a clean shweep, eh?" remarked Bowlder.

The masked stranger nodded.

"If you've got all there is loose and little in the houshe," said Bowlder—he was talking plainer every moment now—"you've got $1500 worth. Been upshtairs yet?"

Again the man of the mask nodded. Also he exhibited symptoms of being about to depart.

"Don't go yet!" remonstrated Bowlder. "Want to talk to you. Did you get the old lady's jewelry upstairs?"

Again the burglar nodded. He seemed disinclined to use his voice unless it was necessary.

"Thash's bad!" remarked Bowlder reflectively; referring to the conquest of his wife's jewelry. "The old lady won't do a thing but make me buy her some more. And the worst of it is, she'll put up the figures on what jimcracks you've got, and insisht they're worth four times their true value. I'm lucky if she don't put it higher than $1000. And they ain't worth $200; you'll be lucky if you get that on 'em."

The burglar looked hopeful as well as he could with a mask, but retorted nothing to Bowlder. The latter mused sorrowfully over his wife's jewels.

"You see it putsh me in the hole!" said Bowlder. "I get it going and coming. You come along and rob me; and then Mrs. B. comes home and robs me again. Don't you think that's a little rough?"

The stranger said it was rough. He didn't nod this time, but used his voice. Encouraged by the agreement with his views, Bowlder urged the return of his wife's jewelry.

"Just gimme back what's hers," said Bowlder, "and you can keep the rest. That'll let me out with her, and I don't care for the balance."

But the man of midnight stoutly objected. It would be a dead loss of $200, he said, and worse yet, it would be unprofessional.

Bowlder thought deeply a moment. Then he took a new tack.

"Any 'bjections to taking a drink with me?" he asked.

"None in the world," said the burglar.

Bowlder explored his coat pocket for a bottle he'd brought home to restore him after his sleep. He proffered the bottle to the burglar.

"After you is manners," said that person.

Bowlder drank and then the burglar did the same.

"You a Republican?" demanded Bowlder suddenly. "I s'pose even burglars have their politics!"

"Administration Republican," said the burglar; "that's what I am. I believe in imperialism and a sound currency."

"I'm an administration Republican, too," remarked Bowlder. "I knew we'd find common ground at last. Now, as a member of the same party as yourself, I want to ask a favor of you. You've got about $1500 worth of plunder there; and yet, you see yourself, there's a good deal of furniture you're leaving behind; piano upstairs and all that. I'll play you one game of 10-point seven-up to see whether you take all or nothing. Come, now, as a favor."

The burglar hesitated. He feared there was a trap in it. Bowlder gave him his word as a goldbug that he made the proffer in all honesty.

"If you win," said Bowlder, "you can cart the furniture away tomorrow. I'll order you a wagon as I go down, and you can sleep in the house and see that I don't carry off anything or hold out on you."

"But it ain't worth as much as what I've got," demurred the burglar.

"Well, see here!" said Bowlder—sober he was now—"to avoid spoiling sport I'll throw in my watch and $30. That's square."

The burglar admitted that the proposal was fair, but stuck for seven points.

"I like straight seven-up," he said. "Make it a seven-point game and I'll go you."

Bowlder produced a deck of cards from the sewing machine drawer. At the burglar's own suggestion they lighted one gas-jet.

"Cut for deal!" said Bowlder.

The burglar cut a 10-spot, Bowlder a deuce. The burglar had the deal.

The king of diamonds was turned as trump.

"Beg!" said Bowlder.

"Take it!" remarked the burglar.

The hands were played. Bowlder had the queen and six-spot of diamonds. The marauder had the ten, nine and seven of diamonds. Bowlder took high, low and the burglar counted game.

"No jack out!" remarked Bowlder.

"No," said the other. And then in an abused tone, "Say, you don't beg nor nuthin', do you? The idee of a gent's beggin' in a two-hand game, a-holdin' of the queen and six."

They played three hands; jack had been out once. Bowlder was keeping score. It stood:

Bowl., I I I I I I.
Burg., I I I I.

It was Bowlder's deal. He riffled the cards with the deftness of one who plays often and well.

"Bound to settle it this time!" said the burglar. "The score stands 6 to 4. You bet your life! I'll stand on the bare jack if I get it."

Bowlder threw the cards around and turned trump with a snap. It was the jack of clubs.

The burglar looked at it wistfully, even sadly.

"That's square, is it?" he said to Bowlder in a tone of half reproach. "You ain't the party to go and turn a jack on a poor crook from the bottom of the deck, and you only got one to go?"

Bowlder assured him the transaction was perfectly honest.

"Yes, I guess it was," said the burglar, rising. "I was watching you, and I guess it was straight. It's just my luck, that's all. Well, I must go; it's getting along towards 4:30 o'clock."

"Have a drink!" said Bowlder, "and take another cigar!"

The cracksman took a drink. Then he selected a cigar from Bowlder's proffered case.

"If it's all the same to youse," said the burglar, "I'll smoke this later on—after breakfast."

And he put the cigar in his pocket.

"Here; let me show you out this way," said Bowlder, leading the way to the front basement door.

"I hates to ask it of a stranger," said the burglar, as he hesitated just outside the door, "but the Eight' avenoo car'll be runnin' in a little while now, and would you mind lendin' me a nickel? I lives down be the Desbrosses Ferry."

Of course Bowlder would lend him carfare. This somewhat raised the burglar's spirits, made sad by seven-up. As he closed the door behind him the burglar looked back at Bowlder.

"Do you know, pard," he said, "if it wasn't for my weakness for gamblin' I'd been a rich man a dozen times."

QUAINT AND QUEER NONSENSE RHYMES

READ THIS OUT LOUD.

Betty Botter bought some butter;
"But," she said, "this butter's bitter;
If I put it in my batter
It will make my batter bitter;
But a bit of better butter
Will but make my batter better."
So she bought a bit of butter,
Better than the bitter butter,
And made her bitter batter better.
So 'twas better Betty Botter
Bought a bit of better butter.

NICHOLAS NED.

Nicholas Ned,
He lost his head,
And put a turnip on instead,
But then—ah, me!
He could not see,
So he thought it was night and
Went to bed.

A JAMBOREE.

The owl and the eel and the warming-pan,
They went to call on the soap-fat man;
The soap-fat man he was not within—
He had gone for a ride on his rolling-pin.
So they all came back by the way of the town
And turned the meeting-house upside down.

O, FIE, HARRIET!

Harriet Hutch,
Her conduct was such,
Her uncle remarked it would conquer the Dutch.
She boiled her new bonnet,
And breakfasted on it,
And rode to the moon on her grandmother's crutch.

DISCONTENTED GIRAFFE.

There was once a giraffe who said: "What
Do I want with my tea strong and hot?
For my throat's such a length,
The tea loses its strength,
And is cool ere it reaches the spot.

WINNIE WAS CHARMED.

Winnifred White,
She married a fright,
She called him her darling, her duck and delight;
The back of his head
Was so lovely, she said,
It dazzled her soul and enraptured her sight.

TIMELY.

Hickory, dickory, dock,
He took a big flier in stock;
The market went broke
And left him in soak,
And he didn't survive the shock.

BIG CROWD OUT AT INAUGURAL

Estimated Largest That Ever Attended the Event.

TRACK IN FAIR CONDITION

BETTING WAS BRISK IN ALL THE EVENTS.

Starters Are Tayon, Duelist, Silverdale, Tulla Fonso, Felix Bard, Sharp Bird, Deboe, Hottentot, Dissenter and Wall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RACE TRACK, FAIR GROUNDS, ST. LOUIS, May 11.—The kisses of a May sun and the embraces of a West wind that would do credit to January combined to woo the moisture out of the track today.

Supt. Matthews' harrows and rollers played their part, too.

But, anyhow, the track looked much better than anyone expected when the first race was called.

The first real "racy" looking crowd of the season is out.

The attendance at 2:30 o'clock is said to be larger than on any preceding inaugural day.

Fourteen books drew in and all of them had all the business they could do.

Women and children began to flock into the grandstand before the jockeys were carded for the first race, and the quarter-stretch and betting ring were crowded before the bookies posted the odds.

Ten horses are listed to start in the Inaugural. They are:

Tayon, Duelist, Silverdale, Tulla Fonso, Felix Bard, Sharp Bird, W. J. Deboe, Hottentot, Dissenter and Wall.

The indications are now that the race will be run in 1:43 or better, but the wind may cut the estimate down half a second or more.

As to what horse will win the Inaugural no man can say with any degree of certainty, but it looks like W. J. De Boe has the best of the argument. The colt is on edge, and was brought here from Chicago for no purpose except to win this race, and he figures a shade better than any of the others. He is a bright bay three years old by Kismet—Solitaire, and James Arthur owns him. He is a small horse, but looks every inch a racer, and with but 92 pounds on his back he should run like a scared ghost. His best chance is thought to be to get out in front and stay there, and if his jockey can start well he will probably try to do this.

Still there are some other light-weighted flyers in the race, and it is entirely within the bounds of possibility that one of these may race the Chicago horse off his feet, and, if he doesn't win himself, permit some of the others to take first money.

Sharp Bird was the steed selected by some of the wise ones to do this trick, but the Texas horse is at his best only on a good track, and it is doubtful that he will be started.

Wall is another swift proposition, but he also likes it smooth under foot. Wall will start, however, and if Winslett gets him off well he will probably finish in the money.

Tayon is tipped by several respectable authorities to win, but in the face of his recent performance it doesn't seem possible. Dominick will ride him, however, and that counts for something, particularly when the field is large.

Tulla Fonso is very good just now, and will carry a sack of money.

Dissenter's magnificent showing in his last out, when he won at a mile and a sixteenth, one mile of which he negotiated in 1:42, makes him the favored of a very respectable contingent. Duelist was expected to be the favorite, but the beating that he got in ordinary company last Monday has soured the form players on him.

Silverdale, the practically certain Schorr starter, should not be overlooked.

Duelist took his measure at Memphis, but that is said to have been because the Schorr horse was sent out to make the running for a stable mate that couldn't deliver the goods, and was tired when Chinn's colt collared him. Miller will ride Silverdale. With Johnnie Woods up it is believed he would have a beter chance. Orleans will not start unless something entirely unexpected turns up before the time for declarations, which is 45 minutes before the race.

The value of the stake is about $3500—more than ever before for this event.

Interest in the other races of the day is overshadowed by the Inaugural, but for all that it is an excellent card. There are seven races on the program, and in several of them the fields are large and meritorious.

First race, seven furlongs, for 3-year-old nonwinners of stake—Bowen 112 (Dominick), 7 to 20, won; Maximus 112 (Houck), 4 to 1, second; Prince Stonmouth 99 (T. O'Brien), 40 to 1, third. Time, 1:31. Carpathian and Pirate's Daughter also ran.

Bowen could have won by 30 lengths instead of a neck. Maximus whipped in an easy second from Prince Stonmouth. The whipping seemed to be unnecessary, but Houck apparently thought he could catch Dominick napping on Bowen.

PRESIDENT AT DEL MONTE

He Will Remain There Over Sunday and Go to San Francisco Monday.

DEL MONTE, Cal., May 11.—The President and his party arrived at Del Monte this morning and will remain over Sunday at this far-famed resort. There is no fixed program except the visit to the Grand Army encampment at Pacific Grove and a drive along the ocean front this afternoon, and the two days of rest will prepare the President and his party for the ordeal they will have to undergo at San Francisco next week.

Gov. Nash and his party and the Ohio Congressional delegation also reached the Del Monte Hotel this morning. They leave for San Francisco this afternoon.

KANSAS CITY MEN STRIKE.

Nearly 500 Machinists Demand Nine Hours and Increased Pay.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 11.—Between four and five hundred union machinists and blacksmiths employed by engine and machine manufacturers of Kansas City struck today for a nine-hour day and an increase of 12½ per cent in wages. The strikers' committee in a statement issued today say:

"The strike is not local. On the 20th of May, if the demands of the machinists are not acceded to, every union machinist in the United States, Canada and Mexico will walk out.

"The trouble goes back a year ago, when the international body of machinists made an agreement with the National Metal Trades Association whereby, on Nov. 20, the 10-hour day was to be cut to nine and one-half hours and on May 20 this year to nine hours. Kansas City merely takes the initiative; the walkout will occur all over the country if the National Metal Trades Association does not concede the points we demand."

The strike was precipitated by a local firm discharging four union men.

OIL LAND TITLES ARE UNCERTAIN

Lawsuits Plentiful in and About Beaumont.

UNKNOWN HEIRS TURNING UP

MANY TITLES ARE FAULTY AND MAY NOT STAND.

BEAUMONT, Tex., May 11.—From present indications it will not be a very great while before nearly half the lands in this section of Texas are tied up in the courts. Every day for a week past two or more big land suits have been filed in the courts here, and it is anticipated a number of others of far-reaching importance will be filed. The wonderful increase in value of lands lying around Beaumont has brought out more kinds of contests than were ever heard of in Texas prior to the bringing in of the great oil gushers here. Heirs never before heard of in this part of the world are constantly springing up, former land owners whose property has long ago been sold at tax sales claim reinstatement under an almost forgotten law, and men who signed away their rights and title when land was unsalable at $10 an acre, are, every day, discovering flaws in the documents that snatched fortunes from them and made fortunes for others. The result is that Beaumont lawyers are working overtime trying to compromise complications which if carried through the courts would, in many instances, nullify subsequent sales and leases and operate to the injury of hundreds of outside investors who had nothing whatever to do with the original transfers. One of the most prominent lawyers in Beaumont is authority for the statement that a very large percentage of recent land transfers in Jefferson County are so faulty that many of them will not hold good in the courts, speculators having been so anxious to get control that care was not taken to prove title or to secure binding contracts. He is of the opinion that many of the suits will be compromised, but that many others will go through the courts where the papers will be held as worthless in the eyes of the law.

The first petition of importance filed in the district court contains some sensational allegations.

The suit is entitled John Scharbuer vs. W. S. Goodell and R. L. Armstrong and is brought to compel compliance with a contract to sell 203 7-100 acres of land in subdivision No. 2 of the Lavid League for $7125.50.

The allegation is made that the defendants, Goodell and Armstrong, conspired to cheat and defraud plaintiff on the date of the execution of the aforesaid contract, Goodell representing that he owned the land described therein by fee simple title; that same was unincumbered and free from any lease or agreement, and these representations were a material inducement for plaintiff to execute the contract; that by reason of the rapid advance in the value and price of the land, in order to enable Goodell to avoid his contract and to deter plaintiff from accepting a deed as stipulated in the contract, Goodell and Armstrong fraudulently filed in the county clerk's office a pretended oil lease to the land, purporting to have been executed from Goodell to Armstrong, fraudulently antedating, so that it appears on its face to be prior in point of time to the date of the contract of sale sued on, but which was in fact executed subsequent to that date.

Plaintiff claims that the land is now worth $500 per acre by reason of oil discoveries in and near it, and that he has been actually damaged in the sum of $100,000, and that by the malice, fraud and deceit of the defendants he claims vindicative damages is $100,000.

H. L. Fagin has entered suit in the District Court against Tom Cronin and the Cronin Land and Oil Co. for the specific performance of a contract by defendant, Tom Cronin, to accept $5000 for the north one-half of lot No. 9 of Spindle Top Heights, or alternatively for damages in the sum of $75,000 for breach of contract. Plaintiff also asks that the Cronin Land & Oil Co. be restrained by injunction from drilling or operating on the land above, and that title to the land be vested in the plaintiff. It is stated in the petition that this land now has a market value of $75,000 by reason of the discovery of oil on and near the premises.

BENEFITS OF CONSOLIDATION

President Schwab of the Steel Trust Before the Industrial Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, was before the industrial commission today. He said that the United States Company controls eight companies by owning their stock, and that while steps are taken to insure the good will and co-operation of all these companies, each one generally is left to conduct business in its own way. As a rule, the plan had been to take in only companies which were not competitors, but it was true that there were cases in which two institutions of the same line were brought together and in such cases the managers were expected to get together in making their plans for sales.

Enumerating the advantages of consolidation, Mr. Schwab said they were found especially in transportation and management and in the utilization of all the ores owned. In this connection Mr. Schwab said that the United States Company owns 90 per cent of the iron ore of the country and he expressed the opinion that these ore deposits must constantly grow in value because limited. The company makes from 65 to 75 per cent of the steel products of the country. He also said that there had been no increase in the price of products since the organization of the United States Company and that the tendency is toward lower prices.

Death is supposed to have been due to natural causes.

Elevator Destroyed by Fire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., May 11.—Metzger Bros.' elevator at Dunkel, four miles north, was destroyed by fire last night. The structure contained $20,000 worth of grain, insured for $15,000. The fire is supposed to have been started by tramps.

MARKETS AND FINANCIAL.

CORN MARKET BROKE

LONGS UNLOADED HEAVILY WITH TELLING EFFECT.

WHEAT FUTURES HELD WELL

Despite the Weakness in Corn Positions, thet Fine Grain Was Steady, Declining but Little.

The corn market was very weak today, longs were heavy profit takers, and the bull crowd seemed disposed to freeze out the tailers. Conditions did not favor the break, as cables were strong, and the wheat market steady, but there was a general rush to take profits, and the break resulted.

The wheat market showed a small decline, but on the whole that cereal was quite steady.

May wheat declined ⅛c, and July ⅜c. May corn lost 2¼c, and July 1⅝c. May oats lost ¼c, and uJly ¾c.

The bearish government report issued yesterday, although largely discounted, was responsible for an easier tone in the local market in the early part of today's session. Price variations were small and trading seemed to be largely of a scalping nature, on the bulges longs unloading.

The situation was not entirely bearish. The Liverpool market closed unchanged to ⅛d below the previous close, which could not be considered a very good response to the weakness of the American markets yesterday. Paris closed ½c up to ½c down from the previous closing price.

Australian wheat shipments for the week are estimated at 1,036,000 bu, compared with 280,000 bu the previous week and none the same week last year.

Minenapolis stocks of wheat for the week are expected to show a decrease of 389,000 bu.

There was no early trading in the May future, although that crop position was offered at 73c, being 4c under the previous closing price.

July sold at 68⅞c, 68⅞@69c, 69c, 69@69⅛c, 69c, 68⅞c, 68⅝@68⅞c, 68⅞c, 68@69c, 68⅝c, 68¾c, 68¾@68c, and again at 68⅝c.

Bradstreet reports exports of wheat and flour for the week as 4,179,000 bu, compared with 5,001,000 bu last week and 3,840,000 bu the same period last year. Since July 1 wheat and flour exports have been 181,093,000 bu, compared with 169,873,000 bu for the same period last year.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis today were 20,928 bu, compared with 17,347 bu same date last year. Of these 57 sacks and 25 cars were local, compared with 1043 sacks and 20 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at Minenapolis and Duluth today were 179 cars, as compared with 424 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary points today were 339,845 bu, as compared with 473,000 bu same date last year.

Shipments, 585,977 bu, compared with 306,000 bu same date last year.

Corn Market Was Weak.

Corn today was weak, constant selling causing a heavy decline. There seemed to be little support, and bull leaders were evidently taking a rest.

A decline of ½ to ¾d in the Liverpool market was not a very bearish item, considering the decline in American markets yesterday; besides this, the wheat market did not show the weakness that it was expected to.

Bradstreet reports corn shipments for the week as 1,584,000 bu, compared with 2,572,000 bu last week, and 4,638,000 bu the same week last year. Since July 1 corn shipments have been 158,599,000 bu, compared with 177,838,000 bu for the same period last year.

May corn opened at 43⅝c, and then sold at 43½c. Later 43⅝@43¾c was bid, and then a sale was recorded at 43½c.

July sold at 43¼c, 43¼@43⅜c, 43⅜c, 43¼, 43⅛c, 43@43⅛c, 43⅛c, 43@43⅛c, 43c, 43@43⅛c, 43c, 42⅝c, 42½c, 42⅜c, 42⅜@42⅝c, 42½c, and again at 42⅝@42⅝c.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis today were 102,060 bu, compared with 27,200 bu same date last year. Of these 824 sacks and 63 cars were local, compared with 34 cars same date last year.

Receipts of corn at primary points today were 459,415 bu, as compared with 320,000 bu same date last year.

Shipments, 637,537 bu, compared with 487,000 bu same date last year.

Oats Futures Ranged Narrowly.

May oats were offered at 29¼c and July sold at 26½c, but nothing else was accomplished in the local pit today. The market for oats futures was very dull, trade light and no range at all to the market.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis today were 52,800 bu, compared with 32,400 bu same date last year. Of these 30 cars were local, compared with 26 cars same date last year.

Cotton Up and Then Down.

The cotton today opened strong, good advances being recorded. These advances, however, were soon lost, crop positions growing decidedly weak and sagging below the previous closing prices.

An advance of 1 to 2 points in the Liverpool market served to bring about the opening rallies in the American market.

At New York May opened 5 points up, July 6, August 7, September 1, November 6 and December 6.

The first line of quotations in each class is calculated to represent the full range from common to extra. Dealers, however, often classify superlative bunches (all tops) for buyers, which sometimes sell considerably above the highest quotations. The second line of quotations signifies the bulk of sales and generally represents the various classes as they are sold on the commission market, more or less mixed.

STOCKYARD NOTES.

Harry M. Taylor, who was the first general agent of the bureau of animal industry west of the Mississippi river, when the inspection system was instituted some years ago, is at the yards. Mr. Taylor is well known to the Texas cattle trade, having at one time held the position of general live stock agent of the Southern Pacific railroad. Just now he is preparing to enter upon his duties as traveling livestock agent of the National Yards and will soon be circulating amongst the trade in the southwest.

During the present week the butcher market strengthened up considerably from the weak, downward tendency which it had taken during the previous two weeks. It did not regain the loss completely, but the tone was much healthier and the improvement substantial. Straight loads of heifers were frequent at $4.75 to $4.95, while the majority of them sold at $4.20 to $4.75, and cows ranged from $1.25 to $4.50, with the bulk at $3.00 to $4.00. Cows are almost as high as at any time this year.

Not many heavy native beef steers arrived this week, and from a standpoint of percentage they were remarkably scarce. On the other hand demands for them were plentiful from all quarters at curernt prices, and as a result several local interests were unable to satisfy their tributary patrons, while buying on eastern account held orders, which they could not fulfill. The top steers were plain quality, but well-finished, averaged 1517 pounds and brought $5.75, and the bulk of the holdings sold at $5.20@5.50.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Wheat was rather dull at the start today and for a time ruled easier on lower cables and the bearishness of the government report issued yesterday. July opened ⅛c to ½c lower at 71c to 70⅝c under liberal selling by a local operator and scattered longs, but reacted to 71⅛c on profit taking by shorts. Local receipts were 104 cars, one of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 179 cars, against 201 last week and 424 a year ago. The weakness which assailed corn a few days ago was still in evidence early today, being fostered by ideal weather, fair receipts and a sharp drop in the Liverpool market. July opened ½@⅝c to ¼@⅜c down at 44⅜@44⅝c. Offerings were liberal at 44½c, but at ⅛c under that there was a fair outside demand, which steadied prices at that decline. The bull leader was not active and the May deal was accordingly neglected. May opened 1c lower at 50½c and steadied there. Receipts were 257 cars, 67 of contract grade.

The close was weak, July 1⅛c lower at 43⅝@43¾c; May unchanged at 51½c.

Oats were steady on a fair commission house and elevator demand. July opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 27⅜c to 27¼c and sold to 27⅛c in sympathy with wheat and corn, but rallied early to 27½c. Receipts were 191 cars.

Provisions were quiet but steady on light hog receipts and a fair cash demand. July pork opened 2½@5c higher at $14.80 to $14.82½, touched $14.85, and then reacted to $14.77½; July lard opened unchanged at $7.92½ and July ribs 2½c down to $7.85, selling later to $7.87½.

New York Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Despite a bullish array of information which greeted the cotton trade this morning futures did not long sustain the initial gains of 3 to 7 points. In fact, after the strength at Liverpool had been discounted there was little left for the element favoring higher prices. Added to this was reports of moisture in vital portions of the belt and in the last hour some large selling orders were executed, resulting in a drop from the opening figures of 8 to 16 points throughout the various positions.

Spot prices held firmly, notwithstanding the throw over of much long cotton in the speculative markets.

The July option recovered slightly just before the close of the session, but final figures were not very much above the lowest range.

SEEKING CUBAN TRADE

ST. LOUIS LATIN-AMERICAN CLUB INVESTIGATES CONDITIONS.

MR. ARBUCKLE MAKES REPORT

After a Month's Stay in Cuba He Is Enthusiastic Over St. Louis' Opportunity for Trade.

After a month's stay in Havana and Matanzas, Manager James Arbuckle of the Latin-American Club and Foreign Trade Association, has returned to St. Louis enthusiastic over the prospects of St. Louis merchants capturing the principal trade of Cuba in almost every line which the island imports.

Mr. Arbuckle was sent to Cuba by the directors of the club to investigate conditions and ascertain the best methods of promoting the business interests of St. Louis in the West Indies.

In Havana and Matanzas he established communication with Cienfuegos, Cardenas, Zibara, Baracoa, Manzanillo and Santiago de Cuba, informing himself on the conditions all over the island.

The present is the time, according to Mr. Arbuckle, for St. Louis merchants to seek Cuban trade, so as to reap the advantage when a settlement of political questions is followed by the business boom which he believes is assured.

"I found matters so unsettled politically," said Mr. Arbuckle to the Post-Dispatch, "that the large banks and importing houses are disposed to be conservative and to curtail operations. The general belief that Cuba will come under the protection of the United States, disposes to listen to trade representatives from the United States, and St. Louis merchants would do well to start after them at once.

"The general opinion among those with whom I conferred—most of them old Spanish merchants, who have been on the island for years—was that annexation was absolutely necessary to the interests of Cuba, many declaring that if independence were brought about, they would close their business and return to Spain.

Prosperity Will Be Assured.

The moment that the protection of the United States is assured, bankers and merchants will extend their operations, property will increase in value and a general boom may be expected.

"Europe still has the advantage in the Cuban trade, more especially Spain, which, while losing business last year, has increased her Cuban commerce very much this year. There is no question that the United States must do the entire business in the near future, as she receives nearly all of her sugar, fruit, cocoa and numerous other products from the island, which is even shipping potatoes and other vegetables to New York.

The long time necessary to receive goods from Europe, too, offers a barrier. Goods can be received from the United States in ten days' time, as compared with two or three months from Europe. Cuban merchants prefer even to pay more in order to save this time.

"New York has been doing quite a large business with Cuba in flour, grain, provisions, shoes, hats and clothing. All of these, with the cheap freights which St. Louis has on the gulf steamships to the island, should be furnished by St. Louis merchants.

"At present we do a considerable business in flour, grain and provisions, but there is a fine field for the other articles now supplied by New York, especially as St. Louis is the shoe center of the world, and for hardware, machinery, drugs, paper and furniture.

"All that St. Louis need do will be to push things as New York has done, New York's success being due entirely to their own activity. St. Louis has direct communication by rail and steamer from New Orleans, Mobile and Pensacola, with through bills of lading and low freight rates, which offer signal advantages for doing business with Cuba.

St. Louisans Must Study Cuba.

"It will be necessary for St. Louis merchants to study the tastes and wants of the people of the island. For this purpose they should send representatives who speak Spanish, and I believe that individual effort will accomplish everything that is desired.

"Sugar machinery is needed in Cuba, as well as corn mills, plows and cultivators. There is a demand for cotton goods, the demand usually being for bright colors, light fabrics of all kinds, woolen clothing for winter wear, soft felt hats and similar articles. I observed while there that American styles were being adopted generally.

"Cuba is recovering rapidly from the ravages of the war. Last year her production of sugar was 200,000 tons. This year it is 600,000 tons and over 1,000,000 tons is the estimate for next year.

"With the existing favorable conditions Cuba's purchasing power is being rapidly and immensely increased and it only remains for St. Louis merchants to get their goods on the market there."

PLANS ARE ACCEPTED

FAIR COMPANY WILL BUILD AT PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

STRUCTURE TO COST $10,000

Contractors Ordered Saturday to Begin Work Immediately and Finish the Building by June 1.

Plans for a $10,000 building at the Pan-American Exposition, to be used as a headquarters for the St. Louis World's Fair, were accepted by the committee on organization of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. at a meeting Saturday morning in the office of President Francis.

The architect, Charles R. Williams of Dayton, O., and the contractors, Thompson, Hubman & Fisher of Buffalo, were ordered by wire to proceed at once with the work of construction. The building will be ready for occupancy June 1.

The plans provide for a two-story frame building, 100 feet front by 50 feet deep. Wide porticos surround the building. There will be a big reception room on the first door and wide stairways around an "open well" formation leading to the second floor.

The building will be between the New England and Michigan buildings, and as it will stand off the front line of the other buildings a double row of columns will probably be erected to form an approach.

After the Buffalo Exposition the building will be taken apart and moved to Charleston, where it will serve the same purpose.

It will belong to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co., and will be used for advertising the St. Louis World's Fair. It will contain no exhibits. It has not yet been decided who will be in charge.

The only other business transacted at the meeting was the consideration of plans for the excursion to Buffalo, which the directors will take May 19-21 on a special train, tendered by the Wabash Railroad. Enough acceptances have been received to insure that the party will be large.

CITY CHARTER AMENDMENTS

The Board of Public Improvements to Give Hearing Next Tuesday Morning on Those Proposed.

At 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning the Board of Public Improvements will give a public hearing on the proposed amendments to the city charter. The hearing was granted upon the application of H. L. Christie, attorney for the Non-Partisan Commission for the Public Welfare.

Members of the Board of Public Improvements, notably President Phillips and Messrs. Hermann and Varrelmann, believe that it would be unwise to change the method of taxation for public improvements, as proposed by one of the amendments.

Since the United States Supreme Court affirmed the validity of the front-foot system of special tax bills, enabling the city to make all the improvements it desires in that manner, they deem it unwise to adopt the district system, which, they think, would certainly be opposed in the courts.

It is possible, however, that an amendment providing for the payment for public improvements in installments may be approved.

TWO MEN MUST GO TO JAIL.

John F. Milan and James Lowden Offended Uncle Sam.

John F. Milan of Glen Allen, Wayne County, was fined $1000 and sentenced to eight months in the Iron County jail at Ironton, Mo., by Judge Marshall in the United States District Court Saturday morning.

Milan was formerly a government storekeeper at Glen Allen and his offense consisted in allowing a distiller in that vicinity to remove from the warehouse at that place a quantity of liquor on which the tax had not been paid; and further, in failing to make a report of the incident to the internal revenue collector. Milan pleaded guilty.

On another plea of guilty, Judge Marshall sentenced James Lowden of Pemiscot County to serve 90 days in jail and pay a fine of $100 for selling liquor without a license. This penalty was given Lowuen, as it was his second offense.

THE FATE OF WOMAN

SHE IS FORCED TO BEAR THE HEAVIEST BURDENS OF LIFE.

Her Work Is from Early Morning Till Late at Night, and Frequently She Breaks Down Under the Strain.

From the Kansas City Journal.

The heaviest burdens of life fall upon woman. While she is not always the wage-earner, the greater share of the responsibility of bringing up the family and running the house comes upon her shoulders. The husband's work is done in regular hours, but hers is never finished and there is always something for her to do from early morning till bedtime. Often to her household worries and cares is added the weight of troubles peculiar to women and it is no wonder that frequently she breaks down under the strain of it all. Nine-tenths of the women in the land are suffering from those ailments which come only to that sex, and many of them do nothing to better their condition. This is a criminal neglect, for from this source spring many complications and it oftens happens that the entire system becomes affected, causing years of misery. There is a positive cure, however, for these troubles, as the following interview with Mrs. C. Peppard, of No. 532 Sandusky avenue, Kansas City, Kan., shows. She says:

"I had suffered all my life with troubles peculiar to my sex, but my system generally was not affected until in 1893. Then I had pain in my chest and between my shoulders. The food I ate caused great discomfort and I was very nervous. I had palpitation of the heart and was dizzy at times. I felt as if I had a band drawn around my head. There was a ringing in my ears and a roaring sound in my head. My feet and legs swelled and were cold, and the doctor who visited me helped me but little.

"After suffering in this manner for about a year I saw an account in a Bluffton, Ind., paper of a person who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I concluded to give the pills a trial myself and began taking them. In three days' time I experienced relief and soon felt much better. I did not stop taking them until I had used six boxes of them and the pain had left me.

"I was benefited wonderfully by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I have since advised dozens of people to use them in curing their complaints. If it will be the means of helping suffering humanity, I shall be glad to have you publish this statement."

Signed. MRS. C. PEPPARD.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 4th day of April, 1901.

ERICH HOMUTH,
(Seal) Notary Public.

No discovery of modern times has proved such a blessing to women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Acting directly on the blood and nerves, invigorating the body, regulating the functions, they restore the strength and health in the exhausted patient when every effort of the physician proves unavailing. These pills are sold in boxes at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had at all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THOMAS GUILTY OF MURDER.

Negro Who Killed His Wife Will Be Imprisoned Ten Years.

Wesley Thomas, a negro, was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in Judge Woods' court Saturday and was sentenced to serve 10 years in the penitentiary.

Thomas killed his wife, Lizzie, on the morning of Jan. 24, by throwing her down the elevator shaft of the Cotton Exchange, at Main and Walnut streets, where he was employed as janitor.

The conviction was based entirely on circumstantial evidence, as there were no witnesses to the act. Thomas set up the defense that his wife's death was caused by an accident. He was working on the fourth floor of the exchange building when the body of the woman was found in the basement, and the theory of the prosecution conducted by Circuit Attorney Folk and Assistant Attorney Maroney was that the negro had thrown her into the shaft from the fourth story landing.

It was proved that he had attempted to kill her a year ago by throwing a lighted lamp at her.

Sidney Herzberg Seeks Divorce.

Suit for divorce was filed by Sidney Herzberg, special agent of the New York Life Insurance Co., against Mrs. Mabel Herzberg in the Circuit Court Saturday. It is alleged in the petition that Mrs. Herzberg deserted her husband June 3, 1893.

She now is in Chicago with her two daughters, Adelaide, aged 20, and Leonere, 18 years old. The couple were married at Pontiac, Ill., June 23, 1879.

MINISTER WAS THEIR BROKER

Now Rev. Mr. Harris' Flock Mourns $150,000.

ONCE A BOARD OF TRADE MAN

THEN HE TOOK CHARGE OF A CHURCH AT MILBURN, ILL.

The Old Fever Came Back and He Induced 500 People to Invest Their Money Under His Seasoned Advice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Some 500 persons in and around Milburn, Ill., have lost $150,000 through the apparently well-meant efforts of their minister, the Rev. S. F. Harris. The money disappeared in a mysterious concern called "The Harris Provident Savings Fund Association."

Before he took to the pulpit the Rev. Mr. Harris was a member of the Chicago board of trade. Milburn, Ill., was his first charge. When the boom began in stocks the old speculative fever seized him. He let in all his flock and all his flock's friends on the ground floor.

Nobody, not even the heaviest investors, know just what "The Harris Provident Savings Fund" contemplated. All that is known is that certificates promising to pay 10 per cent on face value were issued by Mr. Harris in exchange for cash.

Mr. Harris seemed to know all about it and his flock had confidence in him. Men, women and children contributed from $1 to $5000 each and received pretty certificates. They received interest the first quarter and on the next there was a default. Mr. Harris said it would be all right—perhaps.

This, "perhaps," made the people mad. They called on him for an explanation. He couldn't explain. Now he explains that Wall street "swiped" all the savings. The theory of scoffers is that "The Harris Provident Savings Fund Association" was a blind pool which the minister manipulated with intent to separate Wall street sinners from their sheckels.

The only certainty now is that all the money is lost.

A MAN WORKS FROM SUN TO SUN
BUT A WOMAN'S WOR S NEVER DONE
UNLESS SHE USES GOLD DUST

It would be a hard matter to find a woman who hasn't heard of GOLD DUST Washing Powder, but there are still some who are not using it.

GOLD DUST takes the hard work out of house work.

Some women are so constituted that they enjoy the daily grind of the house work mill—but the percentage of those who do it is small.

Most of them are perfectly willing to clip the corners where it is possible.

What is your strength worth?

Of course if you don't put any value on it, then we'll have to admit that "elbow grease" is cheaper than "GOLD DUST."

But there is a day of reckoning coming.

A "bad back," twisted arms, and calloused hands, are signs of "honest toil," but do they pay?

"House work is hard word without GOLD DUST."
